2 old, 4 new vie for ACHS Board

by GLORIA DAVIS
Lakeland Newspapers

Six candidates are vying for the four open seats on the Antioch High School Board of Education in the Nov. 7 election.

Incumbents Charles Forster and Julie Portalski are not in the race, but the other two incumbents Glen Moore and Tom Fisher are hoping to retain their seats.

Moore, who took over as school board president upon the retirement of Robert Lindblad, has been on the board since 1972. He has lived in Antioch for 20 years and has had one child graduate from ACHS and another is a member of this year's senior class. Moore stands on the record of the board he has belonged to for over 17 years, adding, "We are turning from a rural school district into an urban one with all the problems of an urban school district to face." He also hopes to help the board deal with the area's growth and the impending loss of more funding.

Fisher, a lieutenant on the Antioch Police Dept., has lived in Antioch for 14 years with his wife Connie and their four children. Two are presently in school. Fisher, who has been a member of the Board of Education at St. Peter School and the North Chicago Grade School Dist., has been on the ACHS Board for five years. He enjoys serving his community in this capacity.

Ted Axton is the president of the First National Bank of Antioch. He, his wife Vickie and their two children have lived in Antioch for six years. Axton is active in the Antioch Rotary and the Antioch Lions Club and is a member of the Antioch Police and Fire Commission. He has also emceed the Miss Antioch and Little Miss Antioch pageants for the past four years. As a parent he is concerned about assuring the best education for his daughters and all ACHS students. As a businessman he is aware of the importance of a quality education to a future job applicant. Finally, as a taxpayer, he would like to oversee the wise spending of his money.

Alice Gantar and her husband Mike have been Antioch residents for 12 years. They have three children, one of whom is a student at ACHS. She is the past president of the Emmons School PTO and has been showing a strong interest in education for the past 10 years. She has commitments: to quality education; to preparing students for higher education and the workplace; to ensuring a safe school environment; to using all the educational opportunities in Lake County for the betterment of ACHS students.

Clifford Ewert, his wife Barbara and his four children have lived in Lake Villa for four years. He is the manager for Follett Book Stores in the eastern half of the United States. Ewert was out of town

Dean Parkman has lived in Lindenhurst for eight years. He is a widower with three children, one has graduated from ACHS and two are now in school. Parkman is a retired Army officer now attending law school at Marquette University in Milwaukee. He is a concerned parent that would like to help deal with the school's expected expansion, and help choose new members of the administration when some expected retirements take place. He would also like to see that the substance abuse program and those helping college bound students are continued and enhanced.

Lakeland Newspapers

Eight electors from Antioch Grade School Dist. 34 are themselves running for the four open board seats in the Nov. 7 election.

Three of the four incumbents are seeking to hold their board seats, Ed Haley, Bruce Jablonski and Roy Pomrenig. Incumbent Phyllis Zora is not running.

Haley, a native of Antioch, has been on the board for 11 years. He is presently the board president. Haley lead the school district reorganization as well as the drive for the approval of the tax-rate raise referendum.

Jablonski has lived in Antioch for 18 years with his wife Nancy and two children that have gone through the grade school system. He has been on the school (Continued on page 8)

Frederick will run for reelection

State Rep. Virginia Fiester Frederick has announced that she will seek reelection to the Illinois House of Representatives next year from the 59th Representative Dist. Frederick was first elected to the Illinois General Assembly in Nov. 1978.

In announcing her reelection plans, Frederick commented: "With each additional year of service, as the senior Republican member of the House from Lake County, I find that my effectiveness increases both in Springfield and in the district. I have long been a key spokesman on new legislation affecting children, women and senior citizens. As the Minority Spokesman on the House Revenue Committee, a member of the House Appropriations I Committee and a member of the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission, the forecasting arm of the General Assembly, I am deeply involved with all of the financial details of matters coming before the Illinois General Assembly. These matters are of deep and growing concern to all Illinois taxpayers.

Frederick continued: "These are critical years for the state of Illinois, as we try to keep the state solvent, seek to find a better way to fund all public schools in Illinois equitably, respond to the various social agencies in Illinois which require and merit state support, and, at the same time, struggle to stop the exodus of businesses from Illinois. I feel strongly that now, more than ever, we need to have as many experienced fulltime legislators in Springfield. We need to return especially legislators whose record demonstrates an understanding and concern for the broad picture."

A resident of Lake Forest for almost 50 years, Frederick is Secretary of the House Republican Caucus and also serves on the House Public Utilities Committee and on the Select Committees on Children and on Aging. She is also a member of the governor's Alzheimer's Task Force and a member of the House Committee on Implementation of Chicago School Reform.

Representative Dist. 59 comprises Lake Bluff, Lake Forest, Libertyville, Mundelein, east of Rte. 45, Gurnee, Grayslake, Wildwood, Round Lake, Round Lake Park, Vernon Hills, north of Rte. 60 and the northwest region (Highlands) of Highland Park.

Lakeland has date with 708

On Saturday, Nov. 11, a second area code will begin serving Chicagoland. Area Code 708 will serve the Chicago suburbs now served by the 312 area code. The City of Chicago will keep the 312 area code.

The introduction of area code 708 will not affect customers' rates or seven-digit telephone numbers.

Illinois Bell announced the introduction of area code 708 nearly a year and a half ago to give customers time to prepare for the change.

"Adding a second area code was inevitable," said James E. Eibel, Illinois Bell's vice president of operations at the December 1987 news conference. "We're making the change because we're running out of seven-digit local telephone numbers available for customers. The increased demand for service is caused by the economic vitality and growth of the metropolitan area."

Adding the 708 area code to the Chicago area will provide Illinois Bell with an additional 6 million possible phone numbers.

While the rates for calls won't change, how customers dial will change. A customer calling from the suburbs to Chicago will need to dial 1 + area code 312 + the seven-digit number. For calls from Chicago to the suburbs, customers will need to dial 1 + area code 708 + the seven-digit number.

For three months after the introduction, calls made without dialing the respective area code will continue to go through. When the three-month grace period ends in February, 1990, customers will be required to dial "1" plus the area code for calls between the 708 and 312 area codes. Chicago is the latest area added to the growing list of areas requiring an additional area code.

Since 1982, area codes have been added for New York, San Diego, Los Angeles and Galveston. Last year, area codes were added in Boston, Massachusetts, Colorado and eastern Florida.

Stormwater plan moves to public forum

by VINCE VITTORE
Lakeland Newspapers

A small group of area residents showed up to hear members of the Lake County Stormwater Management Planning Committee explain a preliminary plan for dealing with future stormwater problems.

The committee has held three meetings to explain the plan to county residents and will hold one public meeting to take comments on Nov. 8 at the Waukegan Public Library. At the meeting, county residents may make comments about the plan and specific problems they may have with stormwater. Written comments will also be taken for the record by the committee until Nov. 22.

After all comments are recorded, the committee will revise and approve the plan, but probably not until its February meeting, committee director Robert Chave said.

From there, the plan will go to the County Board, most likely at their March meeting. A full scale drainage master plan won't be available until at least 1991, Chave said.

The recent mass development of the southern portion of Lake County has caused several concerns to be raised by the committee and the public, Principle Planner Ray Ontiveros said.

Ontiveros said the goal of the plan is to protect new and existing developments. But after talking to several municipalities, Ontiveros said even simple things, such as terms, can cause problems.

"We want some common language," he said.

The plan will break Lake County up into four areas designated by watersheds, Lake Michigan, Chicago River North Branch, Des Plaines River and Fox River.

The Committee will then form watershed committees to manage the implementation of a master plan.

Ontiveros said these watershed committees may then form smaller committees to oversee specific problem areas. However, he added that the whole idea of the plan is to avoid cut down on red tape.

"We're not talking about a bureaucracy to review every project in every town," he said. "That's not the purpose here."

One idea being mullied over by the committee is that of requesting user fees to implement the master plan.

User fees would be paid by residents within specific basins and would be based on their contribution to the overall stormwater runoff, Chave said.

"We want to move as fast as we can," he said. "But we're limited by our resources."

The committee's budget for this fiscal year is $500,000. Chave said the committee would be asking the county to double that for the next fiscal year.

Bryan, Jones receive CLC endorsements

The College of Lake County Staff Council has voted unanimously to endorse incumbent CLC Board President Rick Bryan and Patricia Jones, another incumbent running on the same slate for the Nov. 7 school board election.

The CLC Staff Council is a union at the college currently representing custodians, maintenance mechanics, and heating, ventilation and air conditioning mechanics.

Bryan, who has been board president since 1987, has been a trustee for CLC since 1983. He will be running for one of two six-year terms on the board.

Another incumbent running for reelection to a six-year term is Nan Fairhurst.

Challengers for the two six-year seats are Barbara D. Oilschlager, Larence L. Kurtz and Darryl L. McDaniel.

Jones is the only incumbent running for the one two-year vacancy on the board. She is being challenged by Duane V. Barcena, David Tannenbaum and William Gill.

THE YEAR IN REVIEW

SAINT THERESE MEDICAL CENTER

Again, the preferred choice and growing stronger.

An annual report of advancements during 1989

The Diabetic Wellness Center is teaching diabetics to take control of their health.

Saint Therese now offers the most comprehensive rehabilitation services in Lake County.

Our complete psychiatric services are helping adults and adolescents cope with the difficulties in life.

Saint Therese has boosted its share of admissions among Waukegan hospitals to 52.1%.

Diabetic Wellness Center.

Saint Therese is now playing a vital role in helping diabetics learn to manage their illness. Through a six-part weekly course, important information is given about injection techniques, glucose monitoring, over-the-counter medications, metabolism, food groups, and psychological adjustment. The courses are taught by medical professionals such as a registered nurse, physical therapists, social workers, a registered dietitian and a pharmacist. Saint Therese also offers a diabetic support group which is helping these patients and their families live with diabetes.

Rehabilitation Services.

With the addition of new, state-of-the-art rehabilitation equipment like no other in this area, Saint Therese offers the most complete and comprehensive rehab services in Lake County. This highly individualized rehab program offers individuals a unique opportunity to recover from injuries, strokes or other debilitations. As further support, our services extend into the patient's home. Here, we work to identify household barriers that could hinder the patient's independence and safety. For workers who are injured on the job, our new Work Power Center in Vernon Hills offers a constructive, work-simulated environment in which they can be treated and prepared to safely return to work.

Psychiatric Services.

With the addition of a program that treats adolescents with psychiatric and chemical dependency problems, Saint Therese now offers the most comprehensive psychiatric care in the area. Plus, our new mobile assessment team is available, 24-hours-a-day, to perform on-site evaluations of troubled adolescents.

The Good Life.

Thanks to our new newsletter, 80,000 area residents are now enjoying health tips, recipes, and informative articles on how to live the good life.

Level II Trauma Center.

In 1989, Saint Therese was designated the only Level II Trauma Center in North Lake County. That's why our emergency room is fully staffed with trauma nurse specialists and the most board-certified emergency room specialists in the county. Plus, trauma surgeons and other specialists are on call 24-hours-a-day.

Renovations.

In a continuing effort to improve our facility, we have remodeled many of our patient floors including surgical services and orthopedics. Other areas which have been remodeled include our hospice, oncology and respiratory units.

New Equipment.

Saint Therese continues to maintain its leadership position by adding new medical equipment. In the cardiopulmonary services department, a new cardiac ultrasound machine offers full color images of the heart. As a vital part of our Non-Invasive Vascular Laboratory, this versatile equipment can be used to check blood flow through the heart and evaluate the integrity of heart valves. In addition, our Telemetry heart monitoring equipment has been enhanced.

In the Surgical Services Department, a new laser scalpel system now transforms light into a fine surgical instrument. This laser is truly remarkable. It not only cauterizes blood vessels which expedites patient progress and recovery, but also seals nerve-endings that a traditional scalpel would expose. This eases post-operative pain and reduces the need for pain medications.

To reinforce our commitment to our physicians, we've installed the Doctor's Office Management Systems (DOMS) software. This state-of-the-art equipment facilitates office management while creating a direct communications link between the physicians and the hospital.

Preferred Choice.

According to a recent Metropolitan Chicago Healthcare Council survey, Saint Therese continues to lead the area in market share. Overall, our share of admissions has risen 1.8 percent since fourth-quarter 1988 and 2.5 percent since the third quarter.

This increase has occurred since the Medical Center was purchased by the Franciscan Sisters Health Care Corporation (FSHCC). At Saint Therese, we're completely dedicated to meeting the expanding needs of the community as well as of our physicians. We believe that this firm commitment, coupled with the strong reputation of the FSHCC, will continue our upward swing in the marketplace.

CORRECTION

Because of a source error, the Antioch News-Reporter reported that Steve Vermillion was dating the driver of the ill fated car in which three Antioch High School students died when it was struck by a Wis. Central Railroad train. Vermillion was the student that passed the girls minutes before and crossed the track just before they did. Vermillion told police that he did not see the flashing lights because of the bright lights of an oncoming car. The staff of the Antioch News-Reporter apologizes for any inconvenience caused by the source error.

Galdine moves to appeal

Nick Galdine, convicted of selling drugs in Wisconsin, charged with selling cocaine to an undercover agent at Galdine Electronics in Antioch in March, made a surprise legal move during his Lake County trial.

Just before the jury trial was about to begin last week, Galdine, waving rights to contest evidence, asked for a bench trial. This move clears the way to a conviction.

At the advice of his attorney, Galdine made the move to facilitate being able to appeal an earlier ruling allowing his arrest in March without a search warrant.

Galdine has heard a second guilty verdict and faces a sentence of between 12-50 years in prison. He already has been sentenced to 10 years by the State of Wisconsin.

Raiders end season virtually undefeated

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(312)395-5380

Seven games played, seven games won. The Raiders ended their fall football season virtually undefeated. After become the division champions, they had one more hurdle to cross—"The Feather Bowl." On Sunday, Oct. 22, they conquered Mundelein 27-0, thus becoming the league champs, and were presented with a trophy almost as tall as the players. To say there was a lot of jubilation over the win would be an understatement. When the clock ran out and the victory confirmed, the boys were literally jumping with joy, as were the spectators and coaches. The boys then gave Coach Grasser a victory bath of ice water. The boys thanked the coach for such a great season and the coach thanked the players.

I think I speak for all the parents when I say thanks, Coach Grasser, for teaching our boys the real name of the game—sportsmanship,

Hometown Goodies

fair play and team effort. In my opinion this fosters the philosophy of "it doesn't matter if you win or lose, what is important is how you play the game." There were no bench warmers among the Raiders. Each and every team member had a position to play, and play it they did. Congratulations to all Raiders, and all coaches—you were truly worthy champs. Eagles win

The Eagles played the Seahawks for division positions. The Eagles were victorious over the Seahawks 12-7. The whole team did super, and Coach Malson received a good soaking of water following the victory. Adam Becker caught a pass from Mike Adamaitis for the touchdown, and Bruce Davis scored the other touchdown. Defense honors go to Jason ("Nails") Lesko and Brian Bruns.

Lightweights

The Antioch Lightweights conquered Fox Lake, 13-6. The game ended in a 6-6 tie and went into overtime. The Antioch team made a touchdown and a pass for the extra point. The Lightweights are still in the championship competition and were to play another game on Oct. 29. This game was to be played on the home field.

4-H award

Jane Qualmann of Antioch received the 4-H award for outstanding community worker. 4-H community workers are trained para-professionals who support the county 4-H program by organizing new clubs, recruiting volunteers, and by planning events and activities.

Praising Oakland School

Oftentimes we come in contact with a lot of negative attitudes and comments regarding our schools. When someone comes along to brighten up our spirits with a positive comment it is surely refreshing and enjoyable to hear.

I received a call from an Oakland Grade School Mom singing the praises of Oakland School. She just wanted the staff at Oakland to know there are an awful lot of people who really do notice and appreciate all they are doing for the kids at Oakland, especially in the area of being alert to their special educational needs.

Flanigan addition

Tim and Cynthia Flanigan recently had a baby boy and named him Colin. He was born at Condell Hospital in Libertyville, and they surely enjoy having him around. Colin has a big brother, Cory, who is six years old, and is counting the days when Colin can romp and play with him in the back yard.

Holiday carolers

P&T Productions is a singing group that is on hand to brighten up your holiday spirits. They are a group of about eight "strolling carolers" that performs at various shopping malls, banks, office parties and private parties. Their voices are beautiful and their Victorian-style costumes add a special quality to their presentations. If you are interested in having them perform at your special function, contact Pete Thelen at (312)395-7275 to make arrangements.

GL School basketball

The Grass Lake School boys' A and B team basketball players are sure to do well as they are cheered on to victory by the following cheerleaders at GLS. There were a lot of girls trying out for cheerleading positions, and all did a great job.

The judges, however, had to choose eight girls for the A Team and eight girls for the B Team. I have been told this was a very difficult task. Congratulations to the following 1989-90 GLS cheerleaders—On the A Team: Jenny Santemmo, Missy Cole, Jessica Stella, Angie Grob, Alicia Corcoran, Jenny Kocal, Brandi Houle and Jenny Laube. On the B Team: Heather Burke, Angela Burke, Rhonda Garwood, Karen Van Patten, Michelle Kocal, Selena Plattner, Kelly Brausam and Beth Boerman. Yes, boys, I'd say you are definitely in good hands.

Students see 'Grease'

Ninety-two GLS junior high students, along with 13 teacher/parent chaperones, attended a performance of "Grease" at Marriott's Lincolnshire Theater. Carolyn Adams, organizer of the theater outing, said the junior high students are to be commended for their excellent behavior throughout the trip. Principal Ray Liss indicated this is the third major theater production the Grass Lake students have attended. The other two being "My Fair Lady" and "West Side Story."

November birthdays

The following Antioch area people will be celebrating birthdays throughout the month of November. I would like to wish the mall a very happy birthday at this time—Walter Martens, Nathan Sachawesky, Jimmy Schmehl, Karen Schmehl, Sarah Alicia Komperda, Alice Parenti, Gina Parenti, Celia Bennett, Laurie Cheterbok, Jeff Fleshman, Brandy Schmehl Filips.

Women's Aglow

The November speaker for the Antioch Chapter Women's Aglow is Sue Kennedy. Sue and her husband are the founders of Resurrection Life Ministries in Aurora. It is a ministry dedicated to life as an alternative to abortion. If you would like to hear Sue's testimony, attend the Nov. 2 meeting of the fellowship. The meeting will be held in the community room of the Antioch State Bank at 7:30 p.m.

good eraser. Pay telephones will be available to students who need to call home for rides immediately after the exam is completed.

Upon entering the building, the students will receive information regarding the location of the various testing rooms. Room assignments are as follows: Antioch Upper Grade, cafeteria; Emmons, room 212 A-B; Faith Lutheran, room 260-261; Grass Lake, room 212 A-B; Lake Villa Intermediate, resource center; Millburn, room 260-261; Prince of Peace, room 212 A-B and St. Peters, room 260-261.

Teachers to share innovation

Two Antioch Community High School teachers who have developed innovative ways of helping students learn will share their findings with teachers from across the state on Friday. The two English teachers will present a program during the 84th annual fall conference of the Illinois Assn. of Teachers of English in Chicago.

Jon Hansen of Antioch and John Whitehurst of Lake Villa will explain how other teachers can motivate high school students to get more actively involved in learning about literature.

In their presentation, "Encouraging Creative and Critical Responses to Literature," Hansen will describe ways for students to respond to the visual aspects of literature, how to see scenes and characters in the mind's eye.

Whitehurst will explain specific methods teachers can use to motivate students to take an active part in classroom discussions of literature, enhancing their understanding of the nuances and ambiguities of what they read.

Up to 700 teachers and administrators of elementary and secondary school English, along with college faculty in English and education will convene at the Hyatt Regency for a program that includes small group workshops and seminar presentations.

1 incumbent, 4 novices vying for 4 GLS seats

With three of the members of the Board of Education of Grass Lake Grade School choosing not to run for reelection on the Nov. 7 ballot, one incumbent, Julianne Groh is trying to retain her seat on the board.

Four newcomers are vying for Groh's seat and the ones vacated by Paul Kitto, Pat Santiammo and Linda Boerman.

Groh, a school district resident for 11 years, was appointed to the board upon the retirement of Mary Beth Walsh. She is active in the PTO and on that group's executive board. She is also a volunteer in the teacher assistance program. She is a certified teacher although she now is employed as a part-time bookkeeper and pre-school teacher at Camp Crayon Pre-School. She and her husband Gary have two children attending GLS.

Cheryl Henning is one of those candidates. She was raised in the Grass Lake area and is a graduate of Antioch High School. She lives with her husband Wally and her daughter Cheryl who will be attending GLS.

A former legal secretary, she has been active in the school's PTO and is also a volunteer teacher's assistant, serving in the "Growing Up Well Program." She now works as a free-lance legal secretary and a beauty consultant for Merle Norman.

Sally Hiller has been a resident of the school district since 1973 and has operated her own business for the last three years. She was a member of the GLS Citizen's Advisory Committee which was formed to study the financial status of the school district and give advice to the board. She has a son in school and a daughter who graduated from GLS. She too is active in the PTO and the teacher assistance program.

Liz Schmehl has lived in the area for 21 years with her husband Jim, her three daughters that went through GLS and ACHS, and her son, who now attends GLS. She is a columnist for the Antioch News-Reporter and the Bi State Reporter.

"Trying for the school board is something I have wanted to do for a long time and now I think I have time to be a caring board member," she said.

The last candidate, Shirley Buchanan could not be gotten in touch with at press time.

board since 1977 and spent 11 of those years as head of the school district's labor relations board, negotiating teacher contracts. Jablonski runs on the board's past record, adding, "There's still a lot to do."

Pomrening, his wife Sandy and three children, all who have gone through the grade school system, have lived in Antioch for six years. He is an airlines pilot who stands on the board's record. Pomrening likes to have people call him with school problems that he can take to the board meetings.

Five candidates seem to be opposing the ways of the incumbents as shown in the manner of the district's reorganization and others opposing the tax rate referendum procedures. They obviously are hoping for a change.

Gary Cybul has lived in the Antioch area for 23 years. He and his wife Linda have one child in the grade school system and another ready to start. He was a teacher-principal at Millburn Grade School for 14 years. He feels he will be able to bring a two-fold perspective to the board since he has experience both as a teacher and administrator.

Gary Burnette and his wife Linda have a son Kyle in the fifth grade at W. C. Petty School where he was president of the PTO. He was active in the school reorganization and has attended most of the board meetings since then. Being a financial consultant, he is interested in a sound fiscal policy for the school district and quality education, as well as taking on board responsibility for the district's pending growth.

Edwin Juergens has lived in the Antioch area for 19 years, has two children in the school system and one more coming up. He is the manager of Dr. R. T. Sven's dental lab in Antioch. Juergens is concerned about the growth and future influx of students and how this will effect the quality of the district's education.

Donna Walsman has lived in Antioch for six years. She is married, has three grown sons and a daughter at Antioch Lower Grade. She too is interested in seeing that the school system gets what it needs from developers so that the burden of the impending growth does not fall on the taxpayer. "I also am for better communication between the board and the electors," she adds, remarking that "the board did not listen to the people during plans for the reorganization."

Karen Lueck is another growth interested candidate who has been active in Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, PTO and the band parents. She is concerned about rising enrollment, government regulations

To vote on 911

Voters in Lake County will have the opportunity to cast a vote for or against the establishment of Lake County's Enhanced 911 Program.

The Antioch area has had 911 availability for more than 10 years, but if the village's system is enhanced, dispatchers will know instantly the address of anyone calling for aid.

Emmons voters face two referendums

by KIM BOLTON

Lakeland Newspapers

Voters in Emmons School Dist. have the responsibility of passing or failing two big referendums as well as choosing four, full-term candidates in the election Tuesday, Nov. 7.

The first referendum is for a building bond of $1.6 million for a new addition and modification of existing space.

The second referendum asks for a 49 cent increase in the education fund tax rate, from $1.64 to $2.13 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Both referendums failed on April's ballot by very small margins, but growth and new housing developments are making them necessary for Emmons to meet the community's needs, board members say.

Among the five candidates competing for a seat is Janet Quist.

Quist is a third-grade teacher in the Dist. 34 school system and the mother of a third-grade Emmons student. Married to Richard Quist, she has lived in Dist. 33 for two-and-a-half years and has been an Antioch resident since 1975.

This election is a new experience for Quist. She said she chose to run for the board of education because:

Ombudsman Services

Ombudsman Educational Services will host an open house from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 8 and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday Nov. 9 at 620 N. Milwaukee Ave. and 206 E. Church in Libertyville. Ombudsman is the third option to public and parochial education for grades one through 12. The program is designed to serve students who are not experiencing success in traditional school settings. All ages may enroll for remediation, skill development or enrichment. High school students may enroll to earn and transfer credit, with home school district approval. ACT/SAT test preparation, typing and computer programming are also offered. Call Ombudsman at (312) 367-6383 for further information.

"I'm just very interested in education in general."

A volunteer at Emmons School and a supporter of the two referendums, Quist said she also would like a seat on the board to "make sure that the best decisions are being made" and that the students are getting the best education for the dollars spent.

"The board has shown in the past that they've been very prudent with the tax dollars," Quist said, adding that she wants that to continue.

Louis Korum III, the senior vice-president of operations at the First National Bank of Antioch, is also running for the Dist. 33 Board of Education for the first time.

The father of three children—two at Emmons—and husband of Terry, Korum said he became involved with the school a year ago when the board originally decided additional housing was needed. He chaired the referendum committee to help them pass. They were defeated in April only by a very slim margin.

Korum made his decision to run for the board because, "I'm realizing whether the referendum passes or not, there's going to be a lot of work needed to be done by the board...I'm interested in helping."

Richard Ruck is an incumbent in the Dist. 33 race and has been on the board for more than 20 years.

An electrical engineer who has lived in Antioch for 25 years and put two children through the school, Ruck's decision to run for another four-year term was threefold. First, he says he is concerned that what the district does is in the interest of the taxpayer.

Secondly, he would like to work on obtaining larger developer donations.

"They're making the benefits and the taxpayers are suffering," Ruck said.

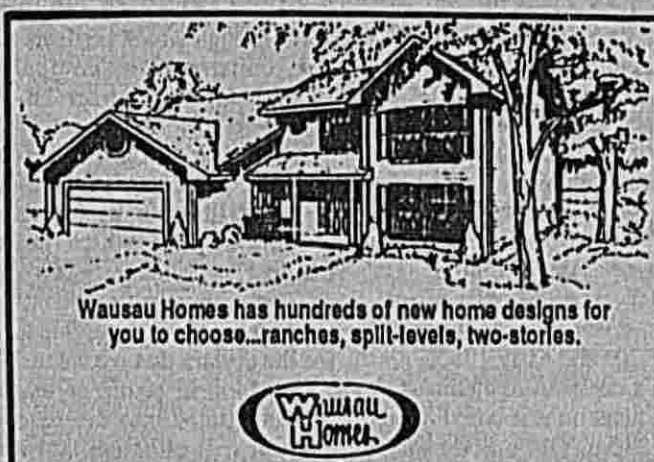

Third, Ruck said the board needs experienced members and that it takes four years to learn how to work on a board of education.

Ruck has been president of the Emmons board in the past and was the impetus behind the move to get the routes of walkers declared hazardous. He was able to secure state funding for Emmons to put walkers back on buses.

In the next term, Ruck said the board must address the problem of the lack of state funding. He said something must be done to change the fact that Illinois doesn't pay its share of education expenses.

Candidates Kathleen Ann Cybul and Jody Colatrino were not available for comment.

ABOUT ARTHRITIS

A patient's will, determination and desire, and the skill of an understanding doctor, frequently make a more powerful combination in overcoming pain and crippling effects of arthritis than any drug available today.

Increasing numbers of the estimated 20 million sufferers of arthritis in the United States are turning to chiropractic doctors for relief. The vast majority have either osteoarthritis, a "wear-and-tear" disease of joints most common in those over 50; or rheumatoid arthritis, characterized by swelling of various joints that occasionally leads to deformities and disability.

The chiropractic doctor usually takes a multi-pronged approach in treating arthritic conditions, in addition to regular adjustments which can provide significant relief. These include carefully programmed mild exercise, improvement of posture, individualized diet with appropriate nutritional supplements, heat therapy, and counseling in lifestyle adjustments to alleviate arthritic pain.

With these approaches, sufferers can move away from drug dependence toward more pain-free, less crippling, lives.

Millburn election to fill seven seats

BY STEVE PETERSON and KIM BOLTON
Lakeland Newspapers

Because three current board members were appointed, Millburn School Dist. 24 voters will have a crowded field of candidates to choose from in the Nov. 7 election. All seven seats will be filled.

Jeffrey Zaloudek, Patricia Durham, M. Kathleen Fendel, James Burnett and Thomas Erlernborn are all seeking four-year terms. Cindy Rose, Ray Boller and George Druce-Hoffman are vying for two-year terms. Fendel, Rose and Burnett are challengers.

Zaloudek, of Lindenhurst, was appointed to the board last year and now serves as vice president. He said he became interested in the school system because of his two children.

"I was surprised at the whole process in terms of things you can and can't do. It's very bureaucratic," he said.

He said reaction to his candidacy "so far has been pretty positive."

Zaloudek called the new impact fee which is being used by the school district as a "step in the right direction. In the past we were using the Naperville formula which gave us $150 a bedroom. Now it is based on costs to educate a child. It still does not come close to the costs," though.

One builder has agreed to the impact fee structure and another, Willows of Wadsworth, is also using it.

Zaloudek said the school should work with Wadsworth and Lindenhurst to bring more commercial development into the district.

Durham, a registered nurse at Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan, said her main interest in the school system is because of her two children, a fifth grader and a seventh grader.

The growing enrollment of Millburn is one of her top concerns.

She said the impact fee being used now will "allow us to plan for the future."

Of the new addition and remodeling of the old building, Durham said "it is a nice building and is being well used."

Durham has been active in the school's Parents-Teachers Organization and PALS program.

A Lindenhurst resident for three years, she moved from Rockford.

"I would like us to be able to provide a quality education for all the new kids coming into the district," Durham said.

Fendel spent a year on the board and is seeking a new term.

"They're pretty much the same problems we've had," Fendel said.

Fendel has one child who is a fifth grader at Millburn and another who is a freshman at Antioch High School.

She said she "is a little more familiar with the board now. When I was on the board the first time, everything was new to me," she said.

"I think we have a good school," I'm really happy that they are not afraid to take on new ideas," Fendel said.

As far as the new impact fee rules, she said Lindenhurst and Wadsworth are both concerned about the school.

Jim Burnett, a downtown Millburn resident who works in mainframe computer software development for Business Software Technology, previously served seven years on the board during the late 1970s and early 1980s.

Burnett says his decision to again work on the board of education was based on his "desire to participate in the decision processes of the school."

Together with his wife, Nancy, a special education teacher at Big Hollow School, Burnett has put one child through Millburn School. He currently has another child in second grade at Millburn and has two more who will be attending the school.

Development, Burnett says, is "inevitable." He would like to see the Millburn board to work harder at obtaining from developers impact fees that are a more fair share of education costs.

"I think there ought to be a more equitable formula for developers to contribute to the schools."

"I don't believe that they even come close to buying their way," Burnett said.

Cindy Rose is a resident of Lindenhurst with three children in Millburn School.

She says she made the decision to run for the Millburn board because "I'm concerned about my kids education and I think it's a good way to get involved."

Although Rose says development in the Millburn district is "scary," she says Millburn's board will have to work with the villages on a plan to absorb the impact.

Rose, a housewife, said she likes the idea that Millburn holds grades kindergarten through eight and that all three of her children can be together at the same school.

"It's a secure environment for my children. It's really a good thing that they're together," Rose said.

A resident of Lindenhurst for one and a half years, Rose says she has always been involved in school and community activities. Although she has never been a board of education member, she was president of the PTA in Joliet where she ran bike-a-thons for cystic fibrosis and organized large, annual Halloween parties.

"I've always been real involved with the communities I've lived in," Rose said.

Ray Boller, a Millburn resident and president of his own software consulting firm through which he deals with software for construction companies, is an incumbent who has served on the board four years.

A member of the board's building and grounds and finance committees, Boller cites Millburn's new addition as an achievement of which he, as a board member, is particularly proud.

"The community and the board has worked together to provide a nice building for the dollars that we spent."

"I'm kind of proud of that. The way it was integrated into our existing building made it real effective and it worked out well," Boller said.

A parent of a fifth and a seventh grader at Millburn, Boller said the board has been doing a better job both educationally and economically. He said future work of the board will be "to continue to make the school a better, more successful place the make the community's children learn and start out on their futures."

George Druce-Hoffman, a life-long Millburn resident who is a technical data processing consultant for IBS, is an incumbent who has served 11 years on the Millburn board.

A graduate of Millburn, Druce-Hoffman says he chose to run for a two-year term this election because there are very few citizens running for school elections and he believes experience is needed on the board.

Noting growth as a basic problem of the Millburn district, Druce-Hoffman said the board is going to have to concentrate its efforts on funding to be able to keep up with development since the state is not paying its share. He said Illinois is legally supposed to fund 50 percent of education and is only paying 60 percent of its share.

As an example, he said Millburn spent hundreds of thousands of dollars removing asbestos as ordered by the state, but didn't receive any financial support for the project.

Druce-Hoffman believes it is wrong that Illinois can be a leading industrial and agricultural producer, yet be 44th in the country in funding education. He believes lobbying efforts must be stepped-up before changes will be made.

"It seems there is something really wrong with state government," Druce-Hoffman said.

Erlernborn could not be reached for comment.

Dr. Gary L. Rippberger
TOENAIL GROWING PAINS

As we mature, the body stops growing. In time, instead of growth, there is concern about the reverse—the loss of teeth, thinning hair and the like. But there is one part of our anatomy that just keeps growing and growing—our toenails.

Considering the span of years we spend trimming our toenails, it's common sense to learn how to do it right. Improper trimming can allow a toenail to pierce the skin—a condition called "ingrown toenail." The result is severe pain, and the possibility of infection. The podiatrist treats ingrown toenails by removing the part that has cut into the skin and taking measures to heal the area and control any infection.

Ingrown toenails occur most often in the large toes. The condition usually can be avoided by trimming the toenails straight across and even with the top of the toe.

55-miles of new concrete

Suggest expressway to McHenry County

Construction of still another expressway serving northern Illinois is being considered by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation.

Proposed is the Fox Valley expressway or Hwy. 430 through eastern McHenry County from Hwy. 55 near Romeoville and Bolingbrook in Will County to Hwy. 12 at Richmond in McHenry County.

This is a 20-mile extension of a proposal made last year by DuPage County officials for a 35-mile expressway linking Romeoville with the Northwest Tollway.

The state Dept. of Transportation has asked consultants to submit proposals for studies to determine the route of the 55-mile expressway. A price tag of $1.2 billion or $22 million a mile has been put on the plan.

The state has agreed fund $3.5 million for the initial study and DuPage County is considering a separate $1 million contribution.

Even if the study shows the project is feasible, construction is six to eight years away.

Purpose of the study is to identify a route and record it so land speculation and zoning can be controlled.

McHenry County officials backing the project say it is necessary to handle the growth expected in the late 1990s and into the next century. In recent years the county has grown by about 3,600 annually to today's estimated population of 165,000.

Three corridors are viewed as potential locations of the expressway.

One would be east of the Fox River and two would be on the west side of the river parallel to Hwy. 31. The eastern route is considered unlikely because of opposition from the affluent community of Barrington. Environmentalists who blocked an expressway plan in the 1970s for the county may object to the western route.

McHenry County officials see the expressway as serving several important growth areas. First is the relocation of the 6,000 employee Merchandise Group of Sears, Roebuck & Co. from downtown Chicago to what was suggested as the former northern terminus of the Fox Valley expressway. This location is only six miles from the McHenry County line.

Next is traffic from two office complexes under construction on the north side of Elgin, one of them a credit card subsidiary of First Chicago Corp. employing 1,500 persons.

Third is a 150-acre shopping center proposed near Volo on the Lake-McHenry County line by Homart Development Corp.

The Fox Valley expressway is in addition to the proposed extension of Rte. 53 through central Lake County to Rte. 120 near Grayslake.

Foreman eyes new post

Lake County State's Atty. Fred Foreman is among four candidates under consideration for the job of U.S. attorney for this part of Illinois.

The Chicago-based job will become available in December or January when the current holder, U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas, returns to private law practice.

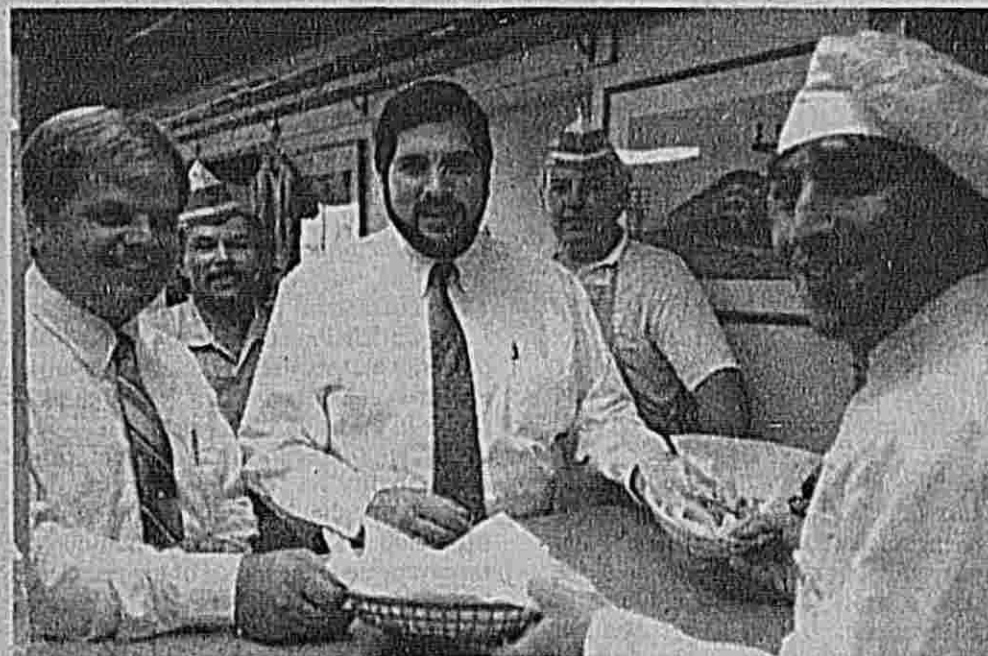

Other candidates are private attorneys William Kunkle, a former prosecutor in the Cook County State's Atty.'s office; James Montana, once an assistant U.S. attorney under now-Gov. Jim Thompson; and Illinois State Police Director Jeremy Margolis.

The appointment will be made by President George Bush based on a recommendation from Illinois Congressman Robert Michel (R-Peoria), the senior member of the Illinois delegation.

Interviews will be conducted by the Congressional delegation with input from Thompson, Valukas and U.S. Transportation Sect. Samuel Skinner of Lake Forest. Skinner also held the same post.

Foreman, 41, conceded that other candidates may rate higher consideration. Foreman was hoping until fall to be slated for a state office with gubernatorial candidate James Edgar, either as lieutenant governor or state attorney general. Foreman is president of the National District Attorney's Assn.

Langel, Smith support full-day kindergarten

One veteran Grayslake Dist. 46 Board of Education member and another member seeking election for the second time will be vying for votes on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Donna Langel, who has been on the Dist. 47 board since 1970 and Susan Smith both believe the present board is working well together.

"It's been an excellent school board," Langel said.

"We really work well together as a team," Smith said.

Because of consolidation of Dists. 46 and 47 in 1987, all terms but one will be decided by voters Nov. 7. Langel and Smith are joined by fellow incumbent Tim Madole and challengers Alice Lehman-Reardon and Brian Smith for four four-year terms. Board President Donald Steffen and Mary Davis are seeking two-year terms.

Langel has a chance to view the growth occurring in the Grayslake Dist. 46 area during the day as she is village clerk for Round Lake Beach.

Langel and Smith both are supporting the district's $5.8 million bond issue which would raise taxes 15 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. If approved, Woodview and Grayslake Junior High would be expanded remodeling work would be done at Lakeview Elementary and Avon Center School.

"Everybody running is in favor of the referendum," Smith said.

Smith said Sunday she has been working the phones during the week and the response has been positive.

"I really enjoy my job," Langel, who has also served as a treasurer for the village, said.

One of the major changes in Round Lake Beach has been the switching to a new computer system.

In addition to the effort to increase taxes, another issue which has surfaced the past few months is full-day vs. half-day kindergarten. Avon had full-day and half-day kindergarten as an option and Grayslake Dist. 46 continued that program after the consolidation.

"I support full-day kindergarten," Langel said.

Regarding the board race itself, Smith said it is a good sign there are seven candidates running. Both had high praise for the work of the administration done by Supt. David Duffy.

"It's a top-notch administration and I feel real good about supporting it," Smith said.

Smith, a training specialist, is an 11-year resident of Grayslake after moving to the area from Lake Forest.

Brian Smith, a Mariner's Cove resident, is seeking election to the board for a four-year position.

An instructor in practical logic at the College of Lake County, Smith said he favors the referendum.

"I think they have demonstrated the need," he said.

Smith said he will "bring an educator's perspective to the board."

He expressed concern about reading scores on the Dist. 46 report cards. He said other districts such as Gurnee Dist. have dropped the Mastery approach to reading.

The president of the Parent-Teacher-Friends (PTF) organization, Smith said being an "outsider" may help him if elected.

He expressed concern about the high teacher turnover ratio in the district.

"Two principals have said they may lose a number of teachers next year," he stated.

He suggested possible non-monetary rewards as a way of keeping teachers longer.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Education of Big Hollow School District No. 38, Lake County, Illinois, will hold a public hearing on NOVEMBER 13, at the hour of 7:00 p.m. at the "Big Hollow Middle School, 34699 N. Highway 12, Ingleside, Illinois, concerning the 1989 tax levy for said school district. This public hearing is being held pursuant to the "Truth in Taxation Act." At such public hearing the Board of Education shall explain the reason for the proposed increase in the tax levy and all persons desiring to be heard shall be given an opportunity to present testimony during such public hearing.

The above indicated hearing may be continued from time to time as may appear necessary or desirable without further notice.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BIG HOLLOW SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 38

Adopt 9-1-1 system

Voting for the Enhanced 9-1-1 proposition on the Nov. 7 ballot could well be one of the most cost effective ballots electors in this locality ever cast. The upgraded emergency telephone service is designed to save lives—your life—so there's no question about an affirmative vote being a good investment.

The 9-1-1 question will be on the ballot in all parts of Lake County except in a handful of communities which already have installed the enhanced version of the universally accepted emergency telephone number. All over, police and fire officials are supporting implementation of 9-1-1 because they know that it is in your best interests, besides enabling them to do their jobs better.

In lending our support to the campaign for 9-1-1, we'd like to point out that local citizens will be provided with an opportunity for a good deal of input in how the system is installed through the formation of individual boards charged with the responsibility of running the systems. This is important, we think, and it takes the onus off having something that is going to cost money foisted upon you.

Yes, 9-1-1 will add to your cost of living. But it also will add to your peace of mind. Considering the price, the small cost is a big bargain.

Importance of your vote

There's a widespread notion that people are sick and tired of all the taxes they're paying. If that's the case, then quite a few elected officials around here haven't gotten the message judging from all the tax propositions on the Nov. 7 ballot. Consider yourself lucky if you live in a district getting a pass on tax referenda this fall.

Throughout the area, there are a variety of tax increase measures on the ballot, covering such things as libraries, water improvements, park districts and, of course, schools. Our news columns in recent weeks have contained reports that there is considerable support for the various propositions. We're frankly surprised that all the referenda are being so well received. But time - and the computers in the County Building - will tell just how much support there really is.

The fact is that voters will have an opportunity to pass judgment on the tax hike plans in the polling place. That's the American way. It's a wonder then that some enthusiasm has been kicked up in Lake Zurich for adoption of home rule power, which essentially does away with referendum authority and puts "blank check" power in the hands of the elected few and their appointees. In a home rule municipality, a good many of the important checks and balances on officialdom are swept away. Individual taxpayers are at the mercy of big spenders and governmental tinkers.

If Lake Zurich voters want to maintain their right to say yes or no about tax hikes and retain their say in village government, they will do themselves a favor by voting against home rule next Tuesday.

Wherever you live, be sure to go to the polls Nov. 7.

Look who's complaining

An outcry is likely on the part of the boating public over proposed increases in registration fees next year for power boats on the Chain O'Lakes and the Fox River. But under the user fee philosophy embodied in the formation of the Chain O'Lakes-Fox River Water Management Agency, boaters will be the direct beneficiaries of increased dredging activity planned to improve navigation. So complainers will be arguing against their own best interests.

Just the same, the agency will begin hearings on a new fee schedule calling for an average increase of $10 per boat Nov. 15 at Grant High School and finish up Dec. 20 at Johnsburg High School. Directors feel the fee increase likely will cover the agency's budgeted deficit of about $150,000. Average registration is $25 so the increase is nominal.

Instead of complaining about registration fees, the boating public would be well advised to complain about all the red tape involved in acquiring more spoils areas throughout the Chain to deposit dredged material. Public pressure is needed on the regulating agencies to acquire needed additional dumping sites. So far the agency has only one approved site and that doesn't go very far with all the work to be done. If the dredging program could be brought up to speed, boaters might be happy to pay additional fees and make a donation to the non-tax supported agency to boot.

Abortion question shifts to states

by JOHN S. MATIJEVICH State Representative

It appears that the abortion issue will not be heard during the fall veto session. To be considered, the bill that is being pushed by pro-life forces needs a majority of the members of the Rules Committee before it can be advanced to the floor of the House.

As chairman of the Rules Committee, I had the first committee vote on the issue before a crowded room, especially with media people from all over. Since the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Missouri Webster case, the "abortion battleground" has shifted to the states.

Rep. Penny Pullen, sponsor of the pending bill, argued that the matter is an emergency because of the Webster case. She said that the proposal prohibited the use of public funds and facilities to perform abortions unless a woman's life were in danger. Also a fetus at least 20 weeks old would have to be tested to determine if it could live outside the womb. If so, a second doctor would have to be present to try to save the fetus after the abortion. Pullen said that the provision would stand the constitutionality under the Webster decision, so Illinois should act quickly on the matter.

Opponents argued that a quick vote on a bill without committee consideration in (Continued on next page)

Frequent flyers hedge answer on air safety

by BILL SCHROEDER

Even in the face of what appears to be an alarming increase in airline accidents, if flying no longer is the travel mode of choice of a majority of Americans a shift has not yet surfaced.

Still, flying safety makes a lively topic. That's how whether people are traveling by air or using some alternative method of transportation, or staying at home, came in for discussion last weekend at a family birthday party in Antioch.

Two well-traveled participants in the discussion provided expert opinion, cousin John, who was in from Dallas, and son-in-law Ralph. John is a partner in an international executive search firm who is well versed in the air routes to major southern cities and big cities on the opposite sides of both oceans. Ralph's real estate management duties for a big insurance company regularly take him to places like New York City, Detroit, St. Louis and Minneapolis.

The rest of us were infrequent flyers, mostly for vacations. What's happening to the airlines? Are the airplanes wearing out because they're so old, or are the airline employees distracted by all the hostile take-over attempts?

The two frequent flyers knew instantly what was on the mind of the land lubbers. The Sioux City disaster, the Manhattan bay skidding incident and some frozen nose gear problems were cited as evidence that all is not well in the Friendly Skies. "How do you guys really feel about climbing in an airplane?"

John and Ralph smiled gamely and rejoined with accepted frequent flyer wisdom: The percentages all are on the side of flying. It's infinitely more dangerous to take the family bus around the block than fly clear across the country for a business appointment. Someone emphasized that when your paycheck depends on the frequency of airplane rides, there isn't a whole lot of choice. What about pure joy riding? The rest of the conversational circle pressed.

The two frequent flyers were caught up short. They paused for a moment of reflection. As businessmen they recognized the need for a hedging strategy and hedge they did. John and Ralph, almost in unison, replied that if concern weighs heavily on your conscience, book your flights on the biggies in the airline industry. The big guys have the best maintenance programs and the best overall odds, they explained. Seems reasonable enough and a good way to close the subject. Pass the hors d'oeuvres.

I couldn't help but recall the Saturday night conversation upon opening the Monday morning papers and reading about the commuter plane crash in Hawaii.

HISTORY—a note of history was sounded with State's Atty. Fred Foreman's appointment of Mary Stanton as an assistant state's attorney. Mary's grandfather was Frank Stanton, a four-term Lake County Board chairman in the 1930s and a west Lake County political powerhouse for years.

Mary is a graduate of Boston College and John Marshall Law School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Stanton of Grayslake. Her first assignment is in the traffic division.

Her father's eyes sparkled when asked if a political career is in his daughter's future. "Time will tell," responded Mitch, a long-time aide in the Lake County treasurer's office.

Politically Speaking

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

It's been awhile since Jim Semmerling had his picture in this column. Apologies are extended for being so remiss about keeping readers up to date on the foils and foibles of the two-term Lake Villa Twp. highway commissioner.

During his last term he fought with Sup. Dorothy Thompson. Now that Sue Hanson has that job, he's battling her.

The latest flap is over five sick days granted a Highway Dept. employee. Semmerling, the good guy he is, paid the man from the township fund for five days on the sick list. Semmerling also filed a workman's compensation claim. A $198.30 check (60 percent of the employee's week's wages) was issued in the man's name. He endorsed the check and gave it to the highway commissioner.

Semmerling sent it to Hanson, asking her to deposit it in the township road fund.

Hanson, who smelled something before she opened the certified letter, checked with several authorities. She concluded the scheme was fraudulent, citing a similar case in Iroquois County. The check was returned to the employee.

What's Semmerling's answer? The same as it has been whenever anyone challenges him: "It's just a bunch of political garbage."

In almost every election, whether it be village, school, county, state or for national office, at least one candidate vows to reduce taxes.

Getting an early start on this issue for November 1990 is Sander Stagman. The 46-year-old Highland Park Democrat, who owns a Chicago tax preparation and accounting firm, will challenge incumbent Lake County Treasurer Jack "Red" Anderson for his $49,500 job.

Stagman's opening political salvo calls for a two-year tax freeze and using the office to rally against increased taxes.

Trouble is, the treasurer's office can't do a thing about the size of John Q. Public's tax bill. It collects taxes and distributes the proceeds to those bodies that set the rate.

If Stagman should lose this one he can always try again. He ran unsuccessfully against incumbent Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox in 1986.

Anderson, who lives in Gurnee, has been a county employee for 31 years and the county's popular treasurer since 1978.

Grace Mary Stern is going to do it again. The Democratic state representative from Highland Park for Dist. 58 says she will try for another term in Springfield. She has held this job since 1984. Since that time she has done the office and her constituents proud.

The one-time Lake County clerk and County Board member is well liked and highly regarded as a lawmaker. Her announcement is good news for Lake County where her heart lies. Her presence on the ballot shows that the two-party system is alive and getting better in Lake County.

Ditto for longtime state Rep. Virginia Flester-Frederick (R-Lake Forest) of the 59th Dist. Frederick, 72, will try for her seventh term in 1990. The senior Republican member of the House from Lake County with 11 years of service has been an advocate of issues affecting senior citizens, women and children. One issue that gets her in hot water, though, is her pro-choice position. As an incumbent, this stand has not affected her vote-getting powers.

Care permit lauded

Editor:

Kudos to the Gurnee village board for approving a special permit to two women operating a family day care home. The support for this family day care home from Gurnee parents was a witness to the fact that child care for working parents is scarce.

It is hoped that additional family day care homes in Lake County will become licensed and meet the approval of zoning regulations in their communities. Gurnee is a growing community which has done well to consider licensed child care in a family home as a desirable service.

Yes vote to lower taxes

Editor:

Our newspapers are full of debate over taxation. There are many sides to the debate and certainly many opinions. Many have chosen to participate in the debate via the opportunity afforded them on the editorial pages of our local newspapers. They should be applauded for their contribution and willingness to speak out. Recently, two spoke out without checking facts.

Sally Harper (Mundelein Review 10-12-89) expresses outrage about her property taxes and suggests that there may be a more equitable method of funding education. Perhaps there is. Ms. Harper further suggests that her taxes could be reduced if there was a consolidation of Fremont Dist. 79 with Dist. 75 and 76. Not if she lives in Fremont Dist. Consolidation may afford some economics of scale and ultimately reduce somebody's taxes, but not mine. Residents of Fremont Dist. would get an increase! Fremont Dist. taxpayers enjoy the lowest rate among all surrounding districts.

T.P. Vaughan (News-Sun 10-17-89) is also concerned about his taxes. He (she?) says that taxes for Fremont School account for "about 70 percent" of property taxes. Now, I can't speak with authority about the Vaughan taxes in Wauconda, but I looked at mine in Hawthorn Woods and found that Dist. 79 accounts for only 36 percent of my total property taxes.

This November, voters in Fremont Dis. 79 are being asked to approve a new tax rate for its education fund. Here is our opportunity to strike a blow for lower taxes. Presently, the district borrows to balance its budget and wastes the taxpayer's money on interest charges. If the referendum passes, funding would be secured without borrowing. This would represent an immediate cost cutting of approximately $45,000. A yes vote would put the total Fremont tax rate at a level lower than the current rate and it would continue to be the lowest in the area. This is a simple equation. Vote yes on the Fremont tax issue and your taxes will be lower.

Railroad companies hiding

Editor:

One need only drive down a back Wisconsin road such as the county highway that divides Racine and Kenosha Counties, to find that even the most rural railroad tracks are guarded by signals and gates. By and large most of the crossings in Wisconsin are so equipped based upon the strict enforcement by that state.

Here in Illinois even busy railroad crossings within municipalities go unprotected and unmaintained. In the last several weeks in north Lake County alone, five people have been killed and one seriously injured as a result of the indifference of the railroad companies and their responsibility to the public. The five deaths at one railroad crossing in Antioch could have and should have been prevented by the installation of crossing gates.

Yet this is not the only crossing that has been ignored by both the railroads and the state safety officials. Railroad grade crossings on Wadsworth Rd. and on Yorkhouse Rd. have no gates. In the instance of the railroad grade crossing within the Village of Wadsworth, where there happened to be gates and signals, the unkept grade crossing itself is in such a deplorable state of repair that cars and trucks cannot cross it directly without performing gymnastic moves to avoid the holes, heaves and pits adjacent to the rails.

It is about time that we demanded performance from the railroad companies. They can no longer hide behind poor cash flows as a means of avoiding their responsibility for safety. Let there not be another death in Illinois at a railroad crossing, based on the lethargy and lack of interest of the railroads and the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Abortion

both houses would not be responsible on such a complex and emotional issue. They also said that there are other cases on abortion pending before the U.S. Supreme Court, so it would be irresponsible to act hastily.

In the past years since the Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortions, the Illinois legislature has acted on many bills that were initiated by pro-life forces. There was always controversy, but legislators were usually voting on something that was later ruled to be unconstitutional. Most of the lobbying was by the pro-life groups, while the pro-choice forces relied on the court decision.

The Webster case seems to make abortion a "state's rights" issue. In this day and age, it is hard to believe that such an important matter isn't a federal matter, rather than one where abortion can be legal in one state, and illegal in another.

After debate in the Rules Committee, the vote was one short of the required majority. Rep. Pullen said that she would request another committee vote, probably the last week of the month. That is the last week of the veto session, so time is running short.

To change any committee vote at this late stage is highly improbable. That means that the abortion issue will not come up until the Spring legislative session. Next year, the second year of the biennium, is also limited to budgetary matters, plus those bills deemed to be emergencies. Whether the abortion bill will clear the Rules Committee next year is questionable, but other parliamentary procedures should guarantee a full House veto.

Satisfies customers

Marie Novatny, owner of West Coast Video in Round Lake Beach, says customer satisfaction is her number one goal. Above, Novatny points out one of her sale items that is also an eye-pleasing display in her store. She says she likes the fact that customers can enjoy the 'Hollywood' atmosphere that is created by the franchise company and spend their time browsing as they would in a library.—Photo by Kim Bolton

Franchise owner buys expertise

by KIM BOLTON
Lakeland Newspapers

As a 39-year-old widow with two boys, Marie Novatny needed quick success in order to keep her family's future secure.

But she had a big problem. Her husband's job as medical director with G.D. Searle had taken the family to Japan for five years and brought her career to an abrupt halt at that time.

After being out of work for five years, the previous director of patient accounting at South Suburban Hospital knew she couldn't go back to a business for which the laws had changed so drastically.

Novatny decided that the only way she'd be able to provide for her boys and be available for them when they needed her would be to own a successful business.

"Because I'm playing mother and father, I thought I'd be a little easier on myself if I owned the business," Novatny said.

But success doesn't happen overnight and Novatny couldn't wait for it. To expedite the process, she searched for a franchise that would work it for her.

That's when Novatny found West Coast Video.

"I was buying a business, but hopefully their expertise...to teach me in a short time what they had taken a long time to learn," Novatny said.

Novatny opened West Coast Video in the Mallard Creek Shopping Center on Rollins Rd. in Round Lake Beach May 2 of this year.

She said part of what attracted her to West Coast Video was the clean, bright Hollywood atmosphere of the stores that, she says, is a nice change from small, dark stores with movie posters blocking the light from entering the windows.

"You get that kind of glitzy, kind of Hollywood feeling!" Novatny said pointing out the chaser lights around the sign.

She says owning a video store is glamorous and that's another reason she decided on her particular franchise. She has always loved movies and wanted a business that was fun.

Novatny said video customers are happy; they aren't in the store because they have to be as when they have to go to a grocery store for food.

"When they walk in my doors... this is something they want to do. Nine times out of 10, they're happy. This is something that's going to please them," she said.

Pleasing customers is Novatny's number one goal. She admits people can go just about anywhere to rent or buy a video tape and says she has to go the extra mile to make them want to come to West Coast Video.

"Our business is customer service. You can go anywhere to rent a video," Novatny said.

Living in Japan for five years and spending time with people from all over the world, has helped Novatny to be able to deal with anyone. She said good customer service has helped her store in gaining its first 4,000 members and that word of mouth will help continue building memberships.

Since her May opening, Novatny has purchased more than 3,000 titles, 80 percent of which are classic movies. They are rented for $1.98 a night and due back by closing of the next day.

One of the biggest problems with her business, Novatny said, is collecting from customers with overdue movies.

"I thought when I got into this business, I was getting out of collections."

"It would be so much better if they brought it in and said, 'I don't think I have the money to pay you today,'" Novatny said, adding that many people hold the tapes until they think they can pay for them. She ends up losing twice because she can't rent the tape and often has difficulty collecting the late charges.

Novatny said many customers think since her business is a franchise, losing money won't hurt it. But, she explained that each movie cost $90 and at $1.98 per rental that encompasses two business days, she has to rent a movie for three months straight before it is paid for. Each movie should last 500 plays, although dirty heads in VCR players can wear a tape down quickly.

So what about the fun part of buying all those movies? Novatny says she has to know her clientele and was initially helped by West Coast marketing reports.

Working 60 hours a week doesn't give Novatny a lot of time for watching movies, but she does have to watch as many as she can to make recommendations to customers. After viewing so many titles, Novatny says she doesn't have a favorite.

In the future, Novatny hopes to open a second West Coast Video store. She says for a widowed mother, obtaining financing was difficult.

"But now that I'm up and running, I would hope they'll (banks) say, 'She's making it,' and lend me the money," Novatny said.

Eastlake Farm opens in Grayslake

Sales are underway at Eastlake Farm, a new residential community located on Rte. 120, just west of Rte. 83 in Grayslake.

The 14-acre site will consist of only 35 private ranch and two-story homes when construction gets underway shortly. Prices range from $163,900 to $210,900. The developer is Northfield-based Home by Hemphill.

Although four models will not be opened until early next year, nine homes have already been sold, according to Mikol Hinden, sales manager. The three-and four-bedroom homes measure from 1,851 to 2,916 square feet. Each features a basement and a two-car garage.

James D. Hemphill, president, said Grayslake was chosen because it is in a country setting, centrally located, has a low density environment, and is not overrun with industry.

"We like the fact that this is primarily a single-family community and will remain that way for years to come. We are particularly impressed with the village's school system which received one of the highest ratings in the Chicago metropolitan area." (Ratings are based on ACT college exams.)

Village Manager Mike Ellis said that public officials intend to preserve the character of this 94-year-old community.

"We are pleased that builders such as Home by Hemphill are creating new communities here," Ellis said.

He noted that the village was actively pursuing new business and is encouraged by the response from retailers who are responding to its dramatic residential growth.

Crane repeals new tax

U.S. Rep. Phil Crane (R-Ill.) has gained the praise of America's largest small-business organization, the National Federation of Independent Business, for voting to repeal a new tax law which would have been a serious setback for the nation's small businesses.

The U.S. House, by an overwhelming margin, voted to repeal the new law, IRS Section 89. If allowed to stand, the measure would impose costly and complicated tests on small-business owners to prove their employee benefit plans were not discriminatory.

Antioch Golf Club gets total facelift

Extensive work to return a once well-known and popular golf course in Antioch to its former caliber was begun today by GreenVisions, Inc., one of the country's leading golf management firms.

More than $1 million has been budgeted for the facelift and improvements to the 18-hole public course, expected to be completed in May, 1990.

GreenVisions' appointment as restorers and operators was made by William Smith, Jr., Randall Bus and Daniel Regan, the new owners of Antioch Golf. The course was formerly called George Diamonds and, later, Harbor Ridge.

Restoration work will include new landscaping, tree pruning and rebuilt sandtraps, tee boxes, greens and bunkers for the course. All clubhouse rooms and grounds will also be redecorated and refurbished.

The course will remain open during the restoration, and league and outing reservations are being accepted for 1990.

Your keys to the city.

Your keys to the suburbs.

NEW AREA CODE STARTS NOVEMBER 11.

DIAL 1 + THE AREA CODE.

Very soon, the suburbs will have their own area code, 708. That means you'll need to key in the appropriate area code every time you place a call between Chicago and suburbs.

708 WON'T CHANGE YOUR PHONE RATES.

All that changes is the area code. The new area code won't affect your telephone rates or seven-digit telephone numbers. In fact, calls between the city and suburbs will still be billed as local calls.

USING THE NEW AREA CODE IS EASY.

To call the suburbs from Chicago, dial 1 + 708 + the seven-digit number. To call Chicago from the suburbs, dial 1 + 312 + the seven-digit number.

And to call between suburbs within the 708 area code or to place calls within Chicago, just dial the seven-digit number. As for area code 815, that won't change at all.

So remember, 708 starts November 11. Without it, we'd run out of phone numbers. And that makes it a key part of our area's telecommunications growth.

ICC orders railroad crossing improvements

Illinois Commerce Commission Chairman Meg Bushnell announced that on Oct. 17, the commission entered an order requiring the Wisconsin and Calumet Railroad Cos. to make improvements at the Lake Vista Terr., State Park Rd., Wilmont Rd., Bliven Rd., Winn Rd., East Solon Rd., Keystone Rd., and the Rte. 173 crossings in Lake and McHenry Counties.

The railroad is required to reactivate the warning devices, install 12 inch flashing lights in lieu of the existing 8 3/8 inch flashing lights and cut any weeds and brush where the crossings are not in compliance with the Commission requirements.

Lake County is required to install an advance warning sign on the south highway approach to the State Park Rd. crossing and the Village of Spring Grove is required to install an advance warning sign on the north highway approach to the Winn Rd. crossing.

The cost for the signal improvements at all the crossings except the Ill. Rte. 173 crossing, estimated to be $17,758, is allocated 90 percent to the Grade Crossing Protection Fund ($15,982) administered by the commission with all remaining cost being borne by the railroad.

The cost for the signal improvement at the Ill. Rte. 173 crossing, estimated to be $2,418, is allocated 90 percent to the Illinois Dept. of Transportation with the remaining cost being borne by the railroad. Lake County and the Village of Spring Grove are to pay the cost to erect the advance warning signs. The railroad is to bear all cost of cutting any weeds or brush at the crossings.

All work is to be completed within four months.

Senator Jack Schaffer of Cary said: "I am pleased the commission has ordered the improvements of the existing automatic flashing light signals at the eight grade crossings. Motorists might not be aware of the resumption of train traffic on this piece of track from Lake Villa to the Wisconsin border and the reactivation of the signal devices will give proper warning to motorists of an approaching train."

Representative Dick Klemm of Crystal Lake commented: "The installation of the larger 12-inch flashing lights will greatly enhance a motorist's awareness of an approaching train at these crossings. I am pleased the Commission has required these installations."

Representative Ronald Walt of Belvidere said: "The more visible 12-inch flashing light signals to be installed at these crossings will improve public safety. The removal of brush from the crossings should also benefit a motorist's view of an approaching train."

FINANCIAL FOCUS

reported by Brosius D'Arcy

For years now, this nation's inflation, trade deficit and unbalanced budget have been making headlines.

Until the early twentieth century, the value of international currency was based on the gold standard, and nations settled trade deficits by exchanging gold. In the nineteen-thirties, nations stopped following the gold standard. The United States alone continued to exchange gold for dollars and continued this tradition until it was stopped by the Nixon administration in nineteen-seventy-one.

The United States, like other nations, then began relying upon its ability to market products abroad to cover the trade deficit it had been building.

In order to do this, the United States was forced to devalue its currency to enhance the purchasing power of the dollar. Unfortunately, this only provided fuel for inflation.

Inflation, an all-too-familiar term, is probably here to stay. The task at hand now is to learn to control inflation and keep it at acceptable levels.

Dungeons in the Bahamas?

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

It doesn't happen too often in Nassau, but you can occasionally experience a rainy day. It's then that we must look for activities that don't involve sun and sand. A visit to Fort Charlotte, a few minutes from downtown, may be just the ticket.

Built in 1789, this English fort boasts a real 18th century dungeon complete with stretching racks and other instruments of "interrogation."

A guide will meet you at the gate for your tour. The cost fit my budget perfectly, as it was free! A tip is appreciated, though.

The underground passages and dungeon were hewn by slaves out of solid rock and took over two years to complete. It is everything you would expect in a dungeon. It's dark, damp and even supplied with dummies for prisoners and interrogators.

The rest of the fort is quite interesting, also. From the ramparts you get an excellent view of the harbor which it was built to guard. It's cannons could fire up to two miles out to sea.

The dry moat surrounding the fort was not filled with water, but rather corn bush. A bridge once led to the powder magazine, which was kept separate in case of explosion.

There is even some 19th century graffiti on the fort's walls. One artist even signed his picture of a ship.

For the energetic, Fort Charlotte is only a 15-minute walk from downtown Nassau. Otherwise, most cab drivers will take you there and wait for you to complete your tour.

A couple of other nearby forts include Fort Fincastle on Bannet's Hill to protect the town of Nassau. On the other end of the harbor is Fort Montagu, the only one to see action.

Environment

Full speed ahead for recycling

by PAM NASLUND

"The earth receives a constant flow of energy from the sun, but for all practical purposes, we have all the matter that we will ever have."

G. Tyler Miller, environmental author, says politely that Mother Earth has only so much "stuff," and if we use it all up, there isn't any more. Abundance seems to surround us in so many ways, it may be hard to envision a future, however distant, in which we may be forced to live by the old adage, "Make over, make do or do without." But we are learning.

In towns and neighborhoods all around us "recycling" is a buzz word that elicits nods of recognition in meeting halls and around coffee tables. We have to do it. We know that. So dutifully, the newspapers are bundled, the cans collected and the glass gathered. Into the bins they go, at the street on pick up day, or at the "recycling center" every week or so. We have recycled. Yes?

Not quite. Of all the shoes, cars, notebooks, green peppers, light bulbs, computer diskettes and pork chops that pulled up in the driveway of a home this year, only 10 percent will find its way back into productive use somehow after being discarded. The rest will be buried or burned.

What else can we recycle? "It's not just recycling new things," says Bill Barron, a director on Lake County's Solid Waste Planning Agency. "We will get better at doing what we already do. Almost every day there is a new machine coming out that does something better." What we recycle is only limited by how fast the technology improves.

Whether we recycle all that we are able to recycle is limited by more complex factors, including public acceptance of products that differ slightly from what we are used to. Jeanne Becker, consultant on Lake County's recent solid waste plan, stresses that we shouldn't expect exotic solution in recycling in the next 10 years. "What we hope to see," she says, "is just getting efficient at the recycling program we are starting now. We have large communities like Waukegan and North Chicago that just don't have anything yet."

"Economic incentives such as tax breaks and government price controls often encourage the use of virgin resources instead of promoting recycling and reuse," Miller writes. "It's just not sound public policy," Barron says. We have to reverse that trend. Developing markets for reprocessed materials requires national, state and local government commitment.

Recycling must be a closed loop to work. The materials must go from the doorstep to a processor who cleans it, remelts it, refines it or refurbishes it into a product that someone else will buy. Only then is it "recycled." Jerri Powell, at Waste Management, says, "If you don't have an end market for the product, it isn't recycling, it's only collecting."

The emerging science of recycling, as a part of a larger solid waste handling system, is also much more than refilling soda pop bottles or using old paper to make new. Farther down the road, Becker expects that we may have as many four bins to separate our garbage, as some European countries do now.

One bin for organic waste-kitchen garbage, yard waste, and even some kinds of paper that can be composted. Another for plastic, glass, metals. A third for hazardous household waste-batteries, pesticides, nail polish remover-that need special are in disposal. The last bin for everything else.

Barron explained that a great deal of recycling goes on in industry that is invisible to the consumer. In the textile industry, manufactures routinely recover nylon, rayon and wool from their own plants to reuse. Metallic and chemical leftovers from other manufacturing systems go back into the inventory stream.

Waste Management already captures methane gas produced from decomposing landfills and uses it to produce electricity. Since a typical facility can produce enough electricity to light 10,000 homes each evenings, this energy source is sure to be tapped more and more.

Plastic milk jugs become playground equipment. There must be a use for pencil sharpener shavings.

Billy Zasadi of Mundelein does his part in contributing to the recycling movement as he overturns yard waste that will eventually be composted. The recycling effort, not only in Lake County but all over the state, will be going full speed ahead as we enter the 1990's. Several Lakeland area communities have already implemented recycling programs, and many more will soon follow.

1990s to be 'turnaround decade'

by Mitchell Landsberg

In a simpler time, not so long ago, environmentalists talked about saving forests for hiking, streams for rafting and clean air for the pure enjoyment of breathing it.

Now, as the 1990s approach, the talk has turned to the science of survival—saving forests for oxygen, keeping streams from spreading toxic pollutants, cleaning the air to avoid catastrophic global warming.

From the hazy vantage point of 1989, the environment looms as the major global issue of the next decade. The threat of an environmental cataclysm is replacing nuclear holocaust as the scariest menace to civilization.

The World Bank, long dismissed by environmentalists as ecologically insensitive, now calls the environment its leading priority for the 1990s. President Bush called the '90s "the era for clean air."

And the Worldwatch Institute, an environmental research organization, calls the 1990s "the turnaround decade" in which people will either stop polluting or face an environmental disaster as devastating as nuclear war.

The greenhouse theory has been around for two centuries, but suddenly became the stuff of newspaper headlines during the hot, dry summer of 1988.

The idea is that certain gases in the atmosphere act like the glass on a greenhouse. They let sunlight in, but won't let its heat out. The biggest villain is carbon dioxide.

Scientists almost universally agree that the gases will cause the Earth to get warmer. "The greenhouse effect is not a hypothesis or anything; it's one of the best-established facts about the way the world works," said Gus Steth, president of the World Resources Institute.

That's where the agreement ends; the fights begin when experts try to guess when the warming will occur and how bad it will be.

Some, such as Stephen Schneider, deputy director of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, argue that the greenhouse effect has already begun and will have devastating effects in the next century unless radical action is taken.

Without such action, Schneider envisions a starkly different world by the middle of the next century, one in which the average global temperature will have risen by as much as 9 degrees Fahrenheit.

Not everyone shares Worldwatch's apocalyptic vision, which is based largely on the threat of global warming—the "greenhouse effect." Many respected scientists say the available evidence doesn't warrant the doomsday warnings.

But few doubt that environmental issues will be paramount in the coming years. If nothing else, the '90s are likely to be a decade of unprecedented research into environmental problems. (AP)

Environmental impact on Housing

by PAM NASLUND

Even moderately priced new homes in the 1990's will be dressed up with hi-tech features inside and out that reflect our concern with protecting the environment. Room lighting monitors which switch off when you leave. Point-of-use water heaters save the energy required to keep a 40-gallon tank of water hot. Computer controlled heating and air conditioning plants which recycle their own fumes will protect the atmosphere.

Experts feel, however, that a "low-tech" approach, taking advantage of natural processes, works better to deal with the larger scale concerns of home developments. According to Bob Suida, vice president of sales and marketing for Westfield Development Corp., "golf course communities" will become more common. Housing developers will be forced to cluster homes closer together, possibly with "zero lot lines," to keep the cost in an affordable range. The acreage that would be taken up between homes then becomes free for other use.

The most obvious benefit is providing open space for woodland, prairie and wetland preservation. But a golf course not only provides a luxurious feeling of spaciousness as a marketing tool, it also handles a number of other environmental requirements. Effective watershed and storm water detention can be engineered into a golf course. Phil Peters of the Northeastern Ill. Planning Commission advises that storm water run-off and sanitary waste water can be treated by settling, filtering and aeration at the point of collection.

"The U.S. EPA will be demanding that we respond to water quality issues, not just storm water detention," he said.

Insecticides, weed killers and fertilizers contaminate rain water as it runs over suburban lawns and gardens. Stricter environmental regulations may require removing those contaminants before the water leaves the premises.

Instead of piping the storm and sewer effluent off to a treatment plant miles away, the purification process can take place within the development. He cites the Hamilton Lakes project in northeastern DuPage County as a successful example of this "low-tech" system, using natural processes instead of high technology treatment plants downstream. Bob Suida confirms, "You can engineer a lot into a golf course." With the pumps and filters located under the tees and greens, nothing will clutter the view. The water hazard on the 16th fairway may just be a water treatment plant in disguise.

Insurance

Mandatory insurance takes effect Jan. 1

Beginning Jan. 1, all drivers in Illinois will be required to have another piece of paper in their cars besides the usual registration.

The General Assembly has given its approval to legislation require all Illinois motorists to carry liability coverage beginning Jan. 1. After that date, motorists will be required to produce proof of insurance upon request.

The move is designed to reduce the number of uninsured drivers from the current 2 million or 26 percent of all motorists.

Under the law, the minimum amount of insurance motorists will be required to have will be: $20,000 for injuring or killing one person in an accident, $40,000 for injuring or killing more than one person and $15,000 for property damage. The new law will not require drivers to carry insurance covering themselves.

The move to mandatory insurance should not increase premiums for motorists who currently carry insurance, according to the Secretary of State's office.

To combat the potential of high risk drivers pushing premiums up, insurance companies are putting tighter restriction on who can get a the low-risk rate, said Chuck White of American Family Insurance in Lake Zurich.

White said most companies now require a driver to have some form of previous insurance and have a clean record for the last three years to get into the preferred premium group.

The Secretary of State's office will launch a massive educational and informational effort designed to acquaint all motorists with the new law.

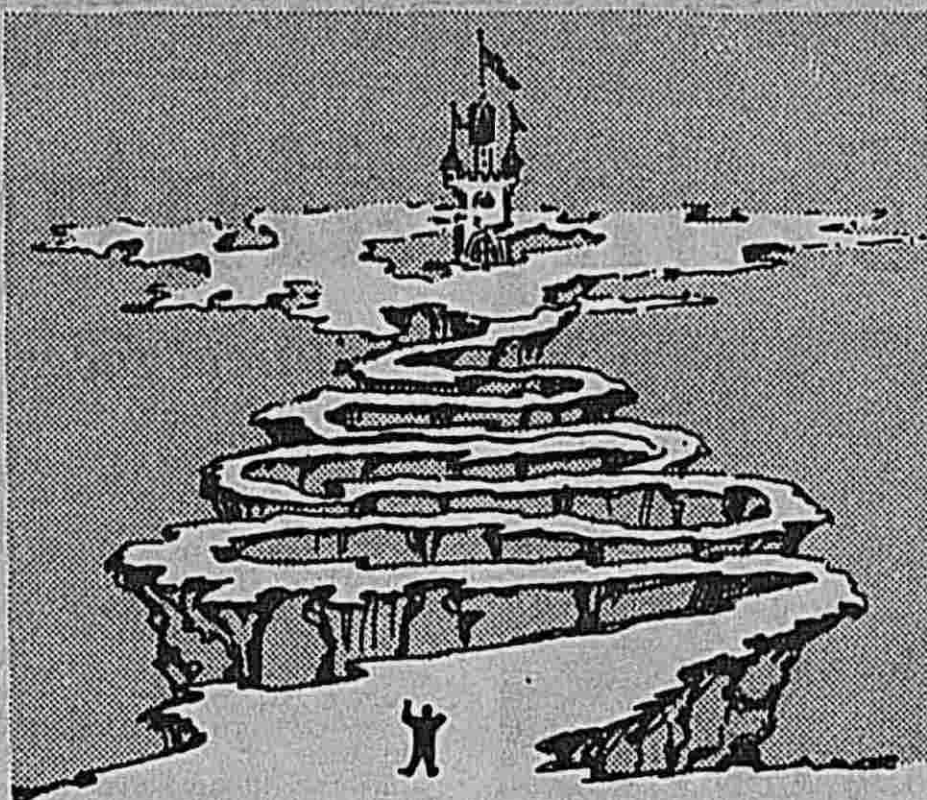

Penalties will be a combination of fines and suspensions of registrations. First offenders will face a minimum fine of $500 and a registration suspension of two months, after which a reinstatement fee of $50 must be paid. Repeat offenders face a minimum fine of $500, four months suspension and a $100 reinstatement fee.

Those caught driving with a suspended registration will face a minimum fine of $1,000 and a extension of the original suspension.

The Secretary of State's office is planning to run random computer checks to catch offenders. They will also make special targets out of those who have been caught on previous occasions.

The insurance industry is expecting a boom when the law goes into effect, White said. However, he added that high risk drivers will always cost the insurance company.

"It'll be in influx of premiums for the first year or so, but it will even out" White said. "It's not going to make (high risk drivers) any better. They'll probably cost us more more than we'll make."

Economy bright for county

By CATHY VELASCO
Lakeland Newspapers

The financial economy looks promising in the 1990s.

"The financial institutions look very, very strong," said Richard Samuels, president of Home Federal Bank for Savings in Waukegan.

Samuels said he expects to see a lot of growth in the upcoming decade for Lake County.

Financial institutions will position themselves to serve Lake County residents as Lake County grows, Samuels said the change in banking laws which will be implemented in the 1990s could influence Lake County's financial shape.

The new law will allow out-of-state financial institutions to buy Lake County banks.

Samuels said out-of-state institutions that do well will address the needs of Lake County residents by providing services and products.

Samuels said the 80s treated financial institutions well, and he expects the same for the 90s.

Unemployment was down, inflation was down, and businesses were thriving. "The 1990s can't get any better than it is now," he said.

Campaigns, candidates go

Political faces of '90s will change

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Politics is changing in Lake County. It has been for years. With new issues almost every election, a new electorate and new politicians comes new office holders. That has been true for decades where the Republican Party has held sway for most of the county's 150 years.

After being nurtured in the '70s and growing to prominence in the '80s, the three-party system is alive and well in Lake County.

How far it will carry into the '90s depends on the principal characters.

On one side of the GOP aisle are County Board Chairman Norman Geary of Avon Twp. and another county board member, F.T. "Mike" Graham of Libertyville Twp., plus those who believe in them. They are Republicans, but not the Gov. Jim Thompson kind. To some they are "political rascals."

After being nurtured in the '70s and growing to prominence in the '80s, the three-party system is alive and well in Lake County.

Thompson's kind is Lake County Republican Party Chairman Robert Neal, also a County Board member and a state payroller. For eight years he has built a power base by doing Thompson's bid in Lake County and keeping the grassroots Republican precinct committeemen happy with patronage posts and by massaging their egos. His troops are typified by County Board member James LaBelle of Zion, director of the new North Point Marina in that community; former Forest Preserve Dist. Chairman Donald Strenger of Lake Forest; and past County Board Chairman James Fields of Antioch.

Then there is the Democratic Party. It has struggled for years. Still, Chairman Betty Ann Moore points with pride to party successes like elder Democratic statesman state Rep. John Matijevich (D-North Chicago) with 22 years in the Assembly. Elected by the party in the '80s after serving as Lake County clerk was state Rep. Grace Mary Stern (D-Highland Park) in 1984 and county clerk successor Linda Hess, who is completing her second term.

This is small evidence of the 1980s shift in Lake County political winds. The biggest change came with the 1988 death of Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox of cancer. The one-time county coroner was the last of the admitted political office holders.

"I don't see any big changes in other offices for the next four to eight years," Neal said.

Still, there could be changes. The aging Geary is tiring of elections after 26 years in political office. Graham, who is also nearing retirement age, may not have the stamina nor the support to run another campaign.

One person who has a feel for the electorate and campaigns is Fred Bigham. A one-time Cook County ward secretary, he moved to Lake County four years ago and was immediately elected a Republican precinct committeeman in Wauconda Twp. Bigham was wooed to growing Lake County to run election campaigns.

The biggest change came with the 1988 death of Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox of cancer. The one-time county coroner was the last of the admitted political office holders.

He made his mark by directing what was the most expensive township campaign in Lake County history. It was the unseating last spring of Graham by Ralph Swank Jr. as supervisor of Libertyville Twp. It cost him $9 a person for 5,500 votes.

He did it with money and a new campaign tactic—plus, minus, zero canvassing. Using precinct committeemen and volunteers, every voter was identified as "yes," "no" and "maybe." The positive ones were called the week of, day before and day of the election.

Politics

Get more sophisticated

"You're going to see more of this or equally sophisticated campaigning," Bigham promised.

Given money for ads, public relations and grass-roots work, no political office holder is immune from defeat.

The days of being elected because of where a candidate was raised or went to high school are gone. So is printing up a few flyers for distribution by the precinct committeeman, making an occasional public appearance and waiting for election day. All of that is still important, as is a party endorsement, but there is more.

To finance campaigns it is $100 donations from local businesses and $1,000 gifts from subdivision developers that finance campaigns that cost $10,000. Add to this larger contributions from the Walgreens, Abbott and Baxter laboratories and $50,000 to $100,000 campaigns are easy.

One reason for such high finance is because Lake County is transient. Upwards of 30 percent of the voters change every four years. Many aren't even registered while living here. Even if they are they may not go to the polls.

They couldn't care less about where a candidate was born, how much money is behind them or their stand on such issues as open space. They might know their tax bill went up $200 last June, a new highway is coming through their backyard or an apartment building is going up down the street. "They know their ox is being gored and they don't like it," Neal said.

Neal believes the 80 percent of the electorate that religiously goes to the polls will keep his party in office through the 1990s as it has for almost 150 years.

Moore thinks the affluence of Lake County—among the 10 wealthiest in the United States—is its political downfall. People are spending, buying and living in $200,000 and $300,000 homes with accompanying lifestyles, she says. They are not as concerned about taxes or grass roots issues as those of fixed incomes, blue collar types or senior citizens. Having children in school stabilizes people, gives them an interest in their community and makes them more apt to go to the polls, Moore adds. She feels the national economy will slow in the '90s and with it will come maturity in the Lake County voting population.

Like getting people to church on Sunday, getting them to the polls on a Tuesday in March or November is still a challenge. Neal and Moore would like a sure-fire plan for turning out more voters. But like religion, doing so takes a few years, some responsibilities, a family and a reason.

Heading into the '90s the political movers and shakers are Lake County State's Attorney Fred Foreman and 62nd Dist. state Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa). Foreman came as close as ever this fall to being slated for lieutenant governor with GOP gubernatorial candidate James Edgar. This month his hat is in the ring for U. S. Attorney General in Chicago. Churchill, the assistant GOP minority whip in Springfield, also a promising career once he gains more seniority.

Then there is the solid, professional Sheriff Clinton Grinnell. Since succeeding Babcox he has become one of the most popular office holders in Lake County. He could become the second sheriff since Babcox to succeed himself—by being a professional rather than a politician.

On the Democratic side, Matijevich and Stern are the ones that Democrats point to with pride. But Matijevich is due for retirement. Stern can and has virtually named her own ticket.

In the 1990s there will be these names and new ones on the ballot. And there will be new voters who will have to decide whether they will make good public servants. But change, when it does come, will be slow. That's the history of politics in Lake County.

Fashion

See shades of 70s touch rags of 90s

by GLORIA DAVIS
Lakeland Newspapers

Since the turn of the century, experts have said that fashion spins on a 20-25 year wheel, with most styles returning each quarter of a century for another go-around.

Of course the designers make a few changes each time they resurrect a style from their archives.

If this is true, the 1990s should bring back some of the styles of the 1970s.

After you stop shrieking at the memory of those raggedy bell-bottom jeans, and fringed vests with tie-die shirts worn by the concert goers of the '70s and take a good look at today's fashion magazines, you'll see the ghosts of fashion past starting to make a reappearance.

Usually a predominant style is born in Europe, most often in Paris.

It then travels to the east coast, quickly skips across to the west coast, and pops up here on the midwest's clothing racks in a couple of years.

As the fall of 1989 blows by and the first winter of the 1990s approaches, Paris designers have heralded the return of the vest, this time done oversized and fitted, with the look of a man's suit vest shown in its silky solid back.

Note that most of these vests are done in paisley, not seen as heavily since it adorned the polyester shirts and the men's silk ties of the 1970s.

A couple of years ago Bill Blass and buddies hiked madame's skirt to mid-thigh, heralding "the return of the 1960s and '70s mini skirt."

The difference here is that they've gone from the sweet, full skirted short swing skirt (sometimes with panties to match) to the hugging straight whisp only seen on "ladies of the night" till now.

But this look, definitely for a very minor part of the female population, has been getting stronger each year and will probably be around deep into the 1990s.

Halters were in in the 1930s, out until the 1950s, came back in the early 1970s and lo and behold, many of today's cocktail dresses are sporting that flattering neckline as well as empire waists, not seen outside of maternity shops since the 1970s.

Wide, flowing pants, called palazzo pants 20 years ago, are climbing the style charts again, especially for evening.

The growing return to man-made fabrics from the natural cloth craze heralds a rebellion from the work that natural fabrics call for.

Many designers and retail houses are now tossing a big-enough percentage of polyester to stop wrinkling, shrinking and eliminate ironing.

More and more fabric houses are expected to turn out materials as lovely as the real thing as they add more man-made fibers that look like silk, linen and wool.

The new popularity of rayon can be explained because this is not the rayon of the 1940s and 1960s. No it is not the same rayon that was a cheap throwaway material 25 years ago.

But the designers of the '80s, who have given madame such fashion latitude and freedom, may have taken Paris' dictatorial powers away forever. The variety of styles and the preference for casual dress, which found its home in the 1980s, is expected to stick around for another 10 years and maybe forever.

Most experts ask, "How're you going to get them back into stiff collars, girdles and waist cinchers after the decade that put casual comfort, and choosing one's own style preference, at the top of the fashion charts?"

Yet look at the return to uncomfortable garter belts, sans easy-to-wear panty hose for the sake of SEX! One never really knows.

Color will follow Mother Nature's lead

The term 'color forecasting' is not accomplished by some all-knowing color guru. Accumulating information in order to come up with a color palette for 1990 started as early as spring of 1988.

by CAROLYN PLAWINSKI

The 1990s have been forecast as years of change. The home furnishing industry is no exception. There are many reasons why this is happening, but one of the most important changes will be in the consumer use of color in the future.

Color can be described in terms of temperature—cool, cold, warm, hot. It can also reflect weight—pale colors weigh less; they are lighter. As colors darken, they grow heavier. Dark draperies or a loveseat upholstered in a dark fabric can unbalance a room instantly.

The term "color forecasting" is not accomplished by some all-knowing color guru. Accumulating information in order to come up with a color palette for 1990 started as early as spring of 1988. So the new colorways are "forecasted," and the public waits with anticipation for the announcement.

Except without anyone knowing it, all the new colorways have been secretly put out in the marketplace already, and we've been falling in love with what the new colors are for at least six months. Someone has already given us direction.

Color in the '90s seems to have been taken from Mother Nature, which can only mean success. For instance, blue, symbolic of many things in our environment, is probably one of the more serene and stable colors. It is a color that is never "in" or "out" of style. In its colorway, which means all ascending and descending shades of any given color, blue runs from palest powder to darkest midnight blue. Another colorway is the shades of brick, which range from the palest of shell pink to deep brick tones. Likewise, the rose colorway ranges from brilliant reds to cinnamon shades.

The peach family seems to be one of the more comforting colorways that, in conjunction with green, is a new combination that is unusual and sophisticated.

Yellow is back on the scene as an architectural color. It is a very warm color and can, seemingly, double the electric wattage inside any room.

Some of the surprises to look for: Lots of contrast between colors. The '80s were known for no contrast, or low contrast color schemes, where the overall effect was monochromatic, no more.

Brown will become a high fashion color. This color is showing up right now in menswear, women's wear and the automobile industry.

Last are the accent colors for the '90s. Those colors that we will use in small doses within a room or color scheme. They'll include violets, lemon-yellows and oranges. As Mother Nature would put it, the fruit and flower colors.

Editor's note: Carolyn Plawinski, ISID, is a custom designer with TransDesigns, a National Decorating Company from Woodstock, Georgia.

Individualized learning heads up '90s

By CATHY VELASCO
Lakeland Newspapers

Education is making a U-turn in the 1990s towards an individual approach in teaching.

Mundelein Teacher Janell Cleland used to spend her summers preparing for the next school year by reading books, writing homework assignments and tests — without knowing the students' capabilities.

"I used to decide what they would learn before I walked into the classroom — I made assumptions," she said.

Today, as a Chapter One teacher, in a state-funded program, she works with students on an individual basis. The curriculum is based around the students' capabilities and improving their skills in a positive light.

In Mundelein's Reading and Writing Center, Cleland and Carol Porter teach high school students based on the whole language technique rather than the old approach, Basal.

Porter said, "Whole language realizes the sum of the parts doesn't equal a whole." In the Basal approach reading is divided into smaller parts, such as contact clues and vocabulary, and then the teacher hopes the student can connect the parts together and be able to use these skills to read and write.

Instead of a teacher coming in with a lesson plan for the students to follow, the teacher works with the student at his level.

"We start with the whole, which is reading and then move from reading and work on the areas the student needs help in," Porter said.

Classroom scenes like this one will be a very popular sight in the 1990's as administrators will turn back the hands of time by eliminating the rows of desks and letting students work in a circle. Here (from left), Mike O'Connor, Glenda Avelar, Norma Rosario, Amy Villereal and Michelle Strachn participate in a reading exercise. — Photo by Margie McMillon Cleland and Porter are teaching whole language for the first time in Mundelein High School in their Reading and Writing Center to 80 students in an elective course to help students improve their writing skills.

Students were selected last year through a test and an interest survey. Students, who scored low on writing and showed an interest in the program, were chosen.

But the students had to sacrifice their study halls, and some seniors took the class instead of leaving early, Cleland said.

"They really want to be here," Cleland said.

The classroom also turns back the hands of time by eliminating the rows of desks and letting students work in a circle of desks.

In this atmosphere students give each other suggestions and help edit their classmates' papers.

Porter and Cleland try to make reading fun for the students by relating the story's conflicts and characters to students' daily lives.

"Students relate to what they are reading," Porter said. They make personal connections with the characters and end up enjoying reading.

Students are still required to find the plot and the conflict, but in the second step they describe when they were in the same conflict as the main character, Cleland said.

Porter said the group was assigned two novels to read on their own, but the students fortunately don't consider it homework, but fun.

"We teach them not to read it to pass a test but for enjoyment," Cleland said.

In addition, to this process, the teacher teaches in a group situation and it is an on-hand learning experience for the students and teacher.

Cleland said she is reading the assigned book for the first time with the students and discusses the book as a first time reader.

She tries to guess the plot with the students, she said. "It's an exciting experience," she said. She also writes a paper and reads it in front of the class.

Cleland said when she reads her rough draft in front of the students, she gets nervous too. "Now, I understand how the students feel."

Mundelein student Tracy VosBurgh said she enjoys the program and has improved her writing. "Here they look at your good points and bad points, and help you develop your skills for the better," she said.

Shawna Gault said "Other teachers look at more of the negative than positive. When I write a paper for the thousandth time and get a C on it — you wonder why you even bothered."

Gault said in the group she can share her papers with others and get good and bad feedback.

Education

Today's gifted will be tomorrow's basics

by PAM NASLUND

Will "education" be different in 1995 in significant ways? When this question was put to Lake County area educators, the response was a resounding YES!

Walter Celusta, assistant superintendent for Libertyville High School commented that the last 15 years has seen a great amount of research on how students learn. "And people are starting to pay attention to that research," he said. Ten to 15 years ago, programs for gifted students centered on "pull out classes" at elementary levels, and "advanced placement" classes at the high school level. These were often "show off" programs, he said. The school could proudly show off its special program for gifted students, pointing out a classroom with bright colors, a variety of materials and a bright and enthusiastic teacher.

"Guess what?" Celusta asks rhetorically. "Average students and slower students would learn faster and learn more in a bright room, with an enthusiastic teacher and colorful, attractive materials."

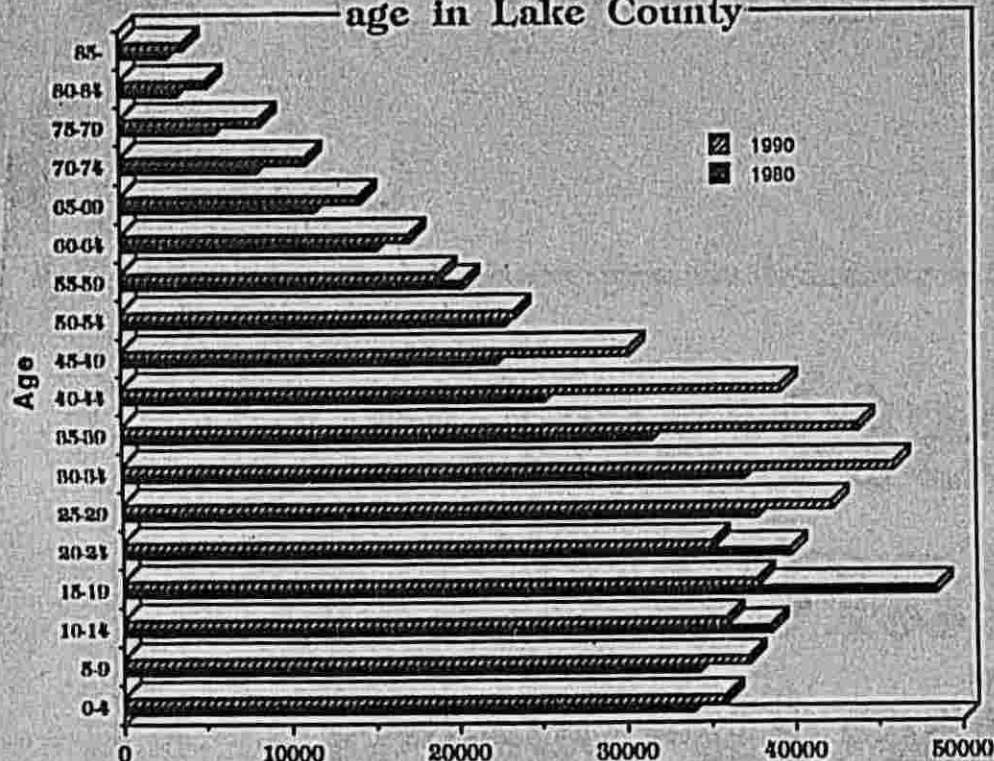

In Green Oaks, Oak Grove School's new gifted education coordinator Jill Dayton said, "The basics of tomorrow are what we are doing with gifted education today."

In 1982, the Education Commission of the States published a list of the higher level thinking skills that all students should develop. That list reads remarkably like the teaching goals for gifted programs over the last 10 years. Dayton says that programs for talented and gifted children centered on the different learning approaches and styles of those students. "All kids are different," she said, "and their needs are not equal." Adapting the learning structure to students' different needs benefits the entire classroom, not just the brightest ones.

Another advance in educational styles derived from gifted programs is an increased awareness of how we are teaching, according to Ron Shelton, assistant principal at Warren Twp. High School. "We will see our courses more open to interdisciplinary learning and student expressions of interest in topics," he explained. Advances in the technology of computer assisted learning will also allow teaching more tailored to individual student needs.

CBM BODY MANAGEMENT CLINIC THE WAVE OF THE FUTURE

"Preventive Medicine"!!!

What Other Professionals Say...

"I think it's an excellent modality for reducing muscular tension, and we do store a lot of stress in our muscles. Routine maintenance massage - just getting one because it feels good - can be very therapeutic, particularly for people with such stress-included ailments as ulcers, asthma, some types of hypertension, migraines and gastro-intestinal disorders."

"Massage can break the cycle of spasm and pain, decreasing both."

Dr. R. Leach, Chairman
Department of Orthopedics
Boston University School of Medicine

Job Productivity...

"Relaxation can be defined as the completely unimpeded motion of a muscle in any direction, and anything you can do easier you can do longer. That doesn't mean putting a limp noodle at the starting line, but rather someone who is relaxed and ready."

Esquire (September 1983)

The Bottom Line...

"Why pay for treatment of 'illness' when you can spend radically less money on successful prevention of the condition and at the same time improve performance and productivity?"

Housing

Stability key concept for housing in '90s

For the home building industry, the 1980s have been a roller-coaster ride, a decade that started with a severe recession, followed by several years of strong sales.

Area builders believe the 1990s will be more stable, with northeastern Illinois exhibiting steady, but not spectacular, economic growth.

"About 10 years ago, we started to hear the term 'rust belt,' and all the talk was about how people and companies were fleeing the midwest for places like Texas and California," said Richard J. Brown, president of Cambridge Homes. "Today, all that has changed."

"Texas has seen a housing recession, while traffic and pollution problems have taken the bloom off the rose in California."

"Now, we have a diverse, stable economy in the Lakeland area. I'm very optimistic about the new decade."

Cambridge is offering pre-grand opening prices at its Fairway Ridge community in Gurnee. The initial phase of Fairway Ridge will include 87 Garden Homes, priced from approximately $108,000 to $125,000, with five floor plans available.

Garden Homes are single-family homes attached at the lot line, enabling buyers to have their own home and yard, according to Brown.

Cambridge also is offering the Garden Homes at Cambridge Country in Mundelein, where furnished models are open. At Cambridge Country, 379 Garden Homes will be built, with prices ranging from $105,490 to $124,490. The homes range from 1,095 to 1,784 square feet.

Not long ago, amenities such as lavish landscaping and beautiful entrances to subdivisions were found only in the upper end of the market. "One of the changes of the past 10 years is that high-volume builders have adopted many of the design flourishes first seen in custom subdivisions," Brown said.

The same trend towards greater visual excitement is happening indoors, as volume ceilings and luxurious master baths have become more popular.

"I think it's refreshing that the average working family can afford a new home with so much to offer," Brown said. "Land prices keep rising, but we keep finding ways to build more efficiently, to provide more home for the dollar."

Brown believes that northern Lake County will remain a hot spot for new homes. "As more jobs are created along the Tri-State Corridor, the residential growth will continue," he said.

Also active in Gurnee area is Westfield Homes, which recently opened five furnished models at South Ridge, a community of 314 single-family homes priced from $127,900 to $281,900.

South Ridge is another example of a subdivision with a special entrance. "A beautifully landscaped entrance featuring a gazebo, small pond and dozens of trees will greet residents when they enter the community," said Bob Siuda, vice-president of sales and marketing for Westfield.

Also, Westfield is donating 5.8 acres to the Gurnee Park Dist., which will develop it into a passive landscaped area with paths leading to South Ridge.

Westfield is also developing the Townhomes of Westgate in Gurnee. Approximately 50 of the 174 townhomes remain for sale, priced from $91,900 to $111,900.

"The response has been terrific," Siuda said. "We opened less than a year ago." Four floor plans are available.

Building communities

There's more than one way to build a community. Instead of building homes, some residential developers now buy land, subdivide it and sell homesites to house hunters who then hire a builder. It is a trend with a future, according to two area builders.

"We definitely plan to do more of this," said Cynthia Kleronomos, vice-president of Property Concepts, developers of Oak Creek in Kendall County, a community of 72 homesites priced from $46,000 to $72,000. Twenty-three sites remain to be sold.

Joan Ditchman, vice-president of sales and marketing for Midwest Development Corp., indicates that Midwest also will continue to sell sites.

"Buyers have definite plans and opinions of what they want in their homes," said Ditchman. "Homes are becoming more customized every day. This is one way we help buyers realize their dream."

Midwest is currently developing Copperfield, a community of 87 sites in Hawthorn Woods priced from $80,000 to $115,000. Forty-five sites have been sold.

Both Ditchman and Kleronomos agree that site buyers are a different breed. These buyers seek unique sites that are wooded and have distinctive features, taking into account how the land slopes, where they can build, how the house will sit on the property and where trees are located—they take a close look at the overall picture.

Property Concepts and Midwest Development Corp. both have architectural review committees to ensure the beauty of the surroundings is reflected in the homes. Every effort is made to harmonize the homes with the environment to have a neighborhood that will blend in with the prestigious nature of the vicinity and maintain the stature of the community.

Although both builders see land sales as a wave of the future, some strategies may be altered slightly. Ditchman sees more people coming in with specific plans before purchasing the land.

Kleronomos sees a shift in a slightly different direction. She says land buyers sometimes find the prospect of building their custom home overwhelming.

Cocooning, new 'buzz' word for the decade

by MALENA SCHROEDER

Traditional television always presented homes that didn't quite seem lived in. The Beaver's house always looked perfect. And there were 2 boys around. How did they manage? June never even seemed frazzled. When Ward got home from work, she was always composed in her freshly pressed dress. Something really wonderful, that usually took hours to prepare, was cooking on the stove. And then the family would leisurely sit down in their formal dining room to enjoy dinner.

Well times have changed. And so have lifestyles. Home trends today that will continue into the 1990's are going casual but comfortable. The large population of "baby-boomers" who in the seventies were hitting the dance floors and discoing to John Travolta and the Bee Gees have now settled down and are undergoing a metamorphosis. "Cocooning" is the term to be exact.

Apparently this is kind of nesting instinct that is occurring in this age group. And it is affecting the home market in general, from inside to out. As Fortune Magazine reports, it seems to be getting harder and harder to lure people out of their homes. They indicate that bars and restaurants are suffering from this transition. But they also add that makers and marketers of consumer electronics, gardening equipment and swimming pools are "raking in the sales."

It seems that people are converting their homes into virtual havens for them to stay, enjoy and entertain in with fewer stepping out to spend their leisure time. Maybe double incomes has something to do with it. With both people working, extra time to spend as family is precious. And after wearing professional attire all day, who wants to dress up and go out? Indeed, casual is in because casual is comfortable.

In terms of the modern house, spacious and open, as well as functional is in. "An awful lot of people are looking for space in the home," states Larry Valenciano, Sales Broker for Merrill Lynch Realty in Libertyville. "Especially a private area, whether it be a study, den or even a lavish bath. Whirlpools are popular. Once the day gets started, it seems that we don't have enough time for ourselves. There is always someone else wanting our attention, whether it be our family or boss. It's nice to have a place that for 10 minutes a day we can just sit there and not have a focus. A place where we can close off the outside world. That is why a lavish bath sells homes," he adds.

Maurice Wallach, Executive Vice

President for Hoffman Homes agrees that buyers expect comfort in their bathrooms. "Master baths with whirlpools, and spacious double vanities are expected. People now a days work hard and they want to reap the benefits of their labor in the homes they buy." He feels that builders will have to continue to match people's lifestyles if they want to sell homes. "People spend much more time in their homes today. The video industry is a tribute to that. They spend time particularly in their kitchens and family rooms. Most people are willing to accept a smaller living room, such as a parlor, in exchange for a more spacious family room," Wallach states.

Valenciano indicates that people look for spacious kitchens that flow into a less formal dinette area. "When people have friends over, they usually entertain casually with the guests even helping out in these comfortable, open areas." Northfield Development Company whose present development is Pine Hill Lakes in Antioch states that they recently added another model choice which has become a favorite of many for these reasons. The Chesapeake, a Cape Cod-like model presents many features in tune to today's buyers. It includes two bedrooms and a loft upstairs, providing much of the room that they seek in a home. But downstairs it provides a private master bedroom. The main floor also includes a large "Great Room," which is a combination of a family room, and dining area. The dining area can be separated by a wall but they have found that most buyers have preferred to keep it down and open.

Today, there also seems to be what Wallach, from Hoffman Homes calls a "segmented" market. Single men, women, divorcees with children, and those with visitation privileges. Also the adult move-down market composed primarily of retirees. All these people want room but they are looking for practical uses of space in the home. The grandparents have the grandchildren over to spend the night only every now and then. The divorced father has his children every other weekend, etc. Homes that offer convenient main floors with master bedrooms suites that you don't have to climb stairs to get to are in demand. The additional rooms then being upstairs provide a comfortable option that many can live with.

The effects of "cocooning" are far-reaching and not exclusive to the real estate area. Retailers are always ready to provide a service which has not been filled yet or to combine two existing ones that have not yet been matched.

Transportation

Road improvements on the way for '90s

Residents of Lake County are being hampered more and more each day by the overcrowding of roads, causing delays, traffic jams and even accidents on major thoroughfares throughout the county.

In response to this, the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT) will implement a $5.8 billion five-year improvement program for fiscal years 1990-94. Of course, not all of this $5.8 billion is for Lake County roads, but a good chunk of it will go towards improving Lakeland area highways.

Funding for these improvements was made available with the passage of the six-cents per gallon motor fuel tax increase and new bonding authority by the General Assembly in June 1989. The increase in motor fuel tax is only the second such increase in 20 years. It will generate $2.5 billion in additional highway investment over five years and create 50,000 new construction-related jobs.

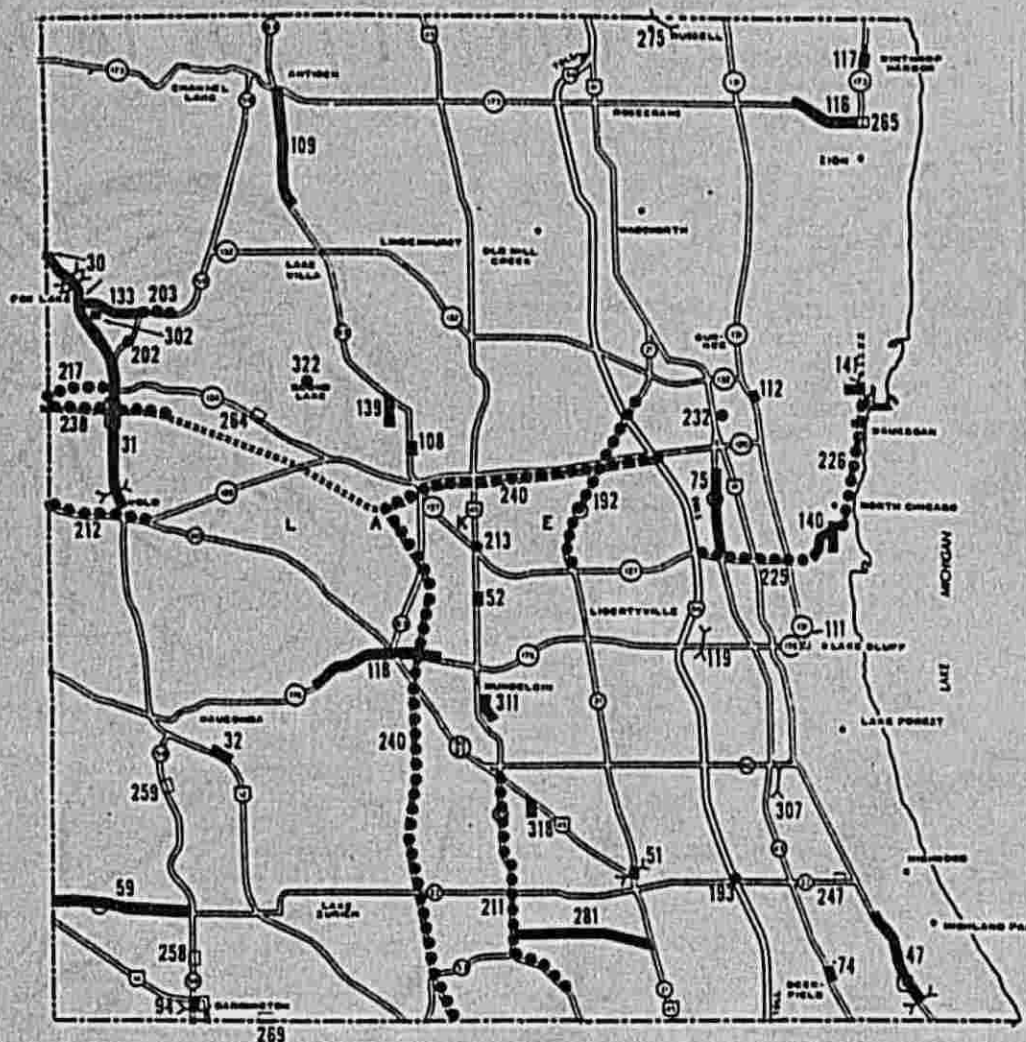

More than 88 percent of the program will be dedicated to rehabilitation and repair work, while 12 percent of the program will be allocated to new construction. Officials feel the program will permit the department to keep the 1,940-mile interstate system in top quality condition, address the critical traffic congestion problem in urban areas, and advance projects in major intercity corridors.

The program includes $15.7 million for the Lakefront Parkway in Lake County to be used for engineering, land acquisition, and construction. Also programmed is $1.2 million for preliminary engineering and land acquisition for the Richmond Bypass in McHenry County and $8 million for capacity improvements on state routes over the North/South Tollway.

Perhaps the most talked about transportation issue over the past year has been the extension of Rte. 53. IDOT's program does include $1 million of preliminary engineering for the extension of Rte. 53 into Lake County.

The chart on this page provides an overview of some of the other highway improvements to be conducted in Lake County over the next five years.

KAHANA

FLOOR PLAN
PLAN #7208-06

Light falls through clerestory windows into a vaulted court at the center of the Kahana. Less formal than a traditional parlor, the court provides the meeting ground of the public and private spaces of the house.

The left side of the court opens into the small formal dining room between the living room and kitchen. More casual eating areas are available in the adjacent kitchen. A snack bar shares a central island with a range, oven, and preparation counters. A corner breakfast nook looks out onto the front yard.

A more secluded hall right of the court serves the master suite and two smaller bedrooms. Linen storage and the laundry room are located at either end, conveniently close to the sleeping areas. The main bath, situated near the doorway to the court, is accessible to the public living areas as well as the bedrooms. The master suite contains its own bath, as well as built-in shelves and dressers, double closets, and a daylight alcove.

The bedroom hall also leads to the garage, allowing occupants to enter their rooms without passing through the rest of the house. Besides room for two cars, the garage has space and lighting for tool storage and a workbench.

All living areas of the house with the exception of the third bedroom open onto the long deck that wraps around three sides of the building. With the clerestory windows in the central cupola, a feeling of space and light pervades the entire home. On hot summer days, the numerous doors can be opened for unimpeded air flow throughout the house.

For a study plan of the KAHANA (208-06), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

By Joyce Jillson
Weekly Tip: Sunday's new moon in Scorpio augers better material prospects for everyone over the next seven days.
Aries (March 21-April 19) Corporate or mutual financial matters get new life, meaning dollars for you.
Passions increase.
Taurus (April 20-May 20) Give important relationship more time and attention; you gain through the benevolence of others. Come from a realistic point of view.
Gemini (May 21-June 21) Letting go of resentments toward co-workers and colleagues frees you to be truly productive. Do good deeds.
Cancer (June 22-July 22) Do everything in the spirit of play this week. Tuesday's upbeat moon in Sag puts your finger on the public's pulse.
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Your home life and close emotional ties get rejuvenated this week. Have your spirit soaring; and you see new trends to cash in on.
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You need movement, both physical and mental, to keep you in top form.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Personal finances get a new look, and so could you! Tuesday brings out your kinky sense of play.
Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Give your attitude about yourself and your life a needed face-lift. Quickly developing financial opportunities Tuesday help pay the rent.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Use the sideways form of seduction to land the one you want. Your day comes on Tuesday for that business coup.
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Groups and friendships are golden the beginning of the week. Be guarded but optimistic about money starting on Tuesday.
Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Just about everything you do is visible this week; guard against verbal miscues, and dress your best. Travel if you can beginning Tuesday.
Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) You have more personal influence than you imagine this week. You could be drawn into foreign affairs on Tuesday.
If You Were Born This Week
Happy Birthday Scorpio! Mars in Scorpio supports the start of original projects this month. Give them all you have. Your earning power increases in December.

Pet of the Week

It's a dog's life!

Snowball is only three years old but likes to relax as he watches the Bears game. His owner, Tammy Lackey of Round Lake Beach, says her Pekinese has loads of personality and if he wants something he won't stop "talking" until he gets it. Snowball's favorite food is spaghetti; his favorite snack is a Milky Way candy bar.

Pets vs. Parasites: A Fight To The Finish

Every year, American pets go round after round in a battle with parasites—and all too often, the pet's owners are busy barking up the wrong tree. Fortunately, your veterinarian can help.

As far as most pet owners are concerned, the "main event" in pet care is dealing with the season's warm weather onslaught of fleas—and there's good reason for that concern. Worldwide, there are more than 2,400 species of fleas jumping from animal to animal—but fleas are only the "first round" of parasite opponents.

Pet owners should know fleas fight on the same card as another "contender"—the tapeworm. Fleas that infest dogs and cats also are the intermediate hosts for the most common species of tapeworms. Tapeworms, while not a serious health threat, can rob pets of nutrition, causing listlessness and a poor coat. They can also be a rather disgusting annoyance; pet owners may find tapeworm segments wiggling on their pet's tail, the living room carpet, the bedspread or on freshly passed feces. Symptoms of tapeworm include irritation or redness around the pet's hindquarters or a pet scooting across the floor on its rear end.

When you suspect fleas or tapeworm, contact your veterinarian as soon as possible. Your veterinarian can prescribe medication that will rid your pet of tapeworms and control flea problems. When it comes to the annual "bout" of flea and tapeworm infestation, the best course is to treat, retreat and attack.

Graham tops 1,000 yards as Sequoits finish 4-5

Improving by a win over last season and having the second 1,000 yard rusher in three seasons were among the highlights for Antioch's football team.

The Sequoits finished the 1989 campaign at 4-5 after falling to Fenton 20-13 in the season finale.

Running back Glenn Graham finished the season with 1,066 yards and 12 touchdowns. David Wick was the last running back to top the 1,000 yard barrier, with 1,050 after he completed his career in 1987.

Graham's high-water mark came at the Homecoming contest against Warren when he ran for more than 230 yards.

Antioch Coach Del Pechauer said Wick and Graham are two different styles of runners.

"Wick would run right over people. If they were in the same backfield, Wick would be the fullback and Graham would be the flanker," Pechauer said.

"We were in every game," Antioch Coach Pechauer said of the season in general.

He pointed to a 10-0 loss to North Chicago as a turning point for the season.

It was running back's Ryan Shea's first touchdown, though, that gave the home team the first of its two ties. Shea scored from four yards out in the first quarter for a 7-7 tie.

The kicking game proved to be the difference in this one. A fumbled kickoff set up Fenton's first score and a blocked punt set up a go-ahead score in the final quarter.

Quarterback Rick Beattie finished his Antioch career with a seven-for-15, 82 yard passing day but threw for three interceptions.

"He had a tendency to want to throw the ball long but then he started to throw short passes," Antioch Coach Pechauer said.

Graham scored on a one-yard run in the third quarter which gave the home team, shooting for a winning season, a 13-13

tie. A 15-yard penalty on Fenton helped set up the score.

As for the underclass Antioch teams, the sophomores continued the season of improvement as they were 6-3, bettering a 2-6-1 record as freshmen.

Seeking more yards

Spikers give Patriots scare in sectional clash

By STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Just before the start of the Antioch-Stevenson girls volleyball match at Mundelein High School, a group of Sequoit fans entered the gym.

"They came appropriately dressed for the day, wearing an assortment of masks. Not that these fans were afraid of showing their support for Antioch, but this was Halloween night.

Antioch's spikers gave the Patriots all they could handle and a dramatic comeback bid in the second game before bowing out of the Mundelein tournament 15-8, 15-11.

Antioch, winners of its own regional tournament last week, was playing at a disadvantage as it did not have middle blocker Deanna Olemek in the lineup due to mononucleosis. Olemek had 12 kills as the Sequoits ousted Round Lake in the final.

"We only have two middle hitters and she is one of them," Antioch Coach Carla Thompson said.

Thompson's team had defeated Stevenson early in the regular season but lost to the Patriots in the second round and the conference tournament.

"We kind of gave it away. We really missed Deanna. The kids did what they could do," Thompson, whose team finished 19-16-1, said.

"They've come a long way. No one expected them to do this," Thompson said.

Stevenson dominated the first game, pulling away from a 3-3 tie to a 7-3 lead. Stevenson's Carolyn Ring, a senior, served for seven straight points including two aces as the Pats grabbed a 14-5 lead.

Antioch showed signs of comeback, gaining two points from Janelle Maki and one from Teri Farnsworth in closing the gap to 14-8 before Elaine Oh scored the final point for Stevenson.

In game two, Stevenson again broke away from a 3-3 tie to an 11-5 margin.

This time the Sequoits gave the Pats a scare, closing to 11-10 on five straight points by Jenny Hagen.

After a timeout, Stevenson regrouped as Robyn Schenk's point gave the Pats a 12-10 lead and Katie Schuillian and Courtney DeBolt served out the match.

Although his team reached the 30 win plateau for the second straight year and advanced to within one game of another Sweet Sixteen appearance, Coach Bob Schenk was not impressed.

"We played tentative the whole night. We had seven kills and that's usually less than Courtney and Katie have in a match. We were afraid to hit at the net and afraid of making errors. I was not happy with the net play," Schenk said.

Serving improved for Stevenson from game one to the second game. In the first game, the Pats had five bad serves. They were perfect in the second game.

"I think Antioch played the same way we did. They played give-away, too. Our personnel was just able to cover," Schenk said.

"I thought our defense was overshadowed by our lack of offense," the coach said.

Ring had three aces and Brown had four service points. Schenk said the Pats were able to neutralize Antioch's top front-row player Teri Farnsworth.

Kickers prove they belong in IHSA elite

"Antioch High School is no longer the soccer doormat," Coach Charles Trout said with pride.

The Antioch team showed two northern Illinois powerhouses know that yes - the Sequoits do belong to the state elite at the Barrington sectional. The Sequoits edged Elgin Larkin 2-1 in overtime to advance to the sectional final before losing to Palatine 1-0 in a penalty kick.

"Palatine dominated for three quarters but we dominated the fourth quarter," Trout said.

Sophomore Jon Schulz was in goal for the Sequoits and is just one of the reasons Antioch is boasting a 16-4-2 record for this fall.

"Schulz did an excellent job for us," Trout said.

He said he always had the possibility of using Schulz in the back of his mind as the early portion of the season progressed. "His turning point was the first time we put him in against Carmel," Trout said.

For the winning Pirates, Garry Garcia and Mike Jersey scored the penalty kick goals to help Palatine advance to the Sweet Sixteen.

"We had our chances," Trout said. In the sectional opener, Jason Masek scored from an assist of Craig Hanrahan with one minute and 20 seconds into the third OT to make the difference in the win.

"About five different players touched the ball and Craig put a beautiful pass to Masek on the wing. It was a beautiful play," Trout recalled.

Mike Denman, a senior forward, had scored the other goal for Antioch.

The Sequoits downed McHenry 6-1 to win their first-ever regional title after beating Johnsburg 8-0.

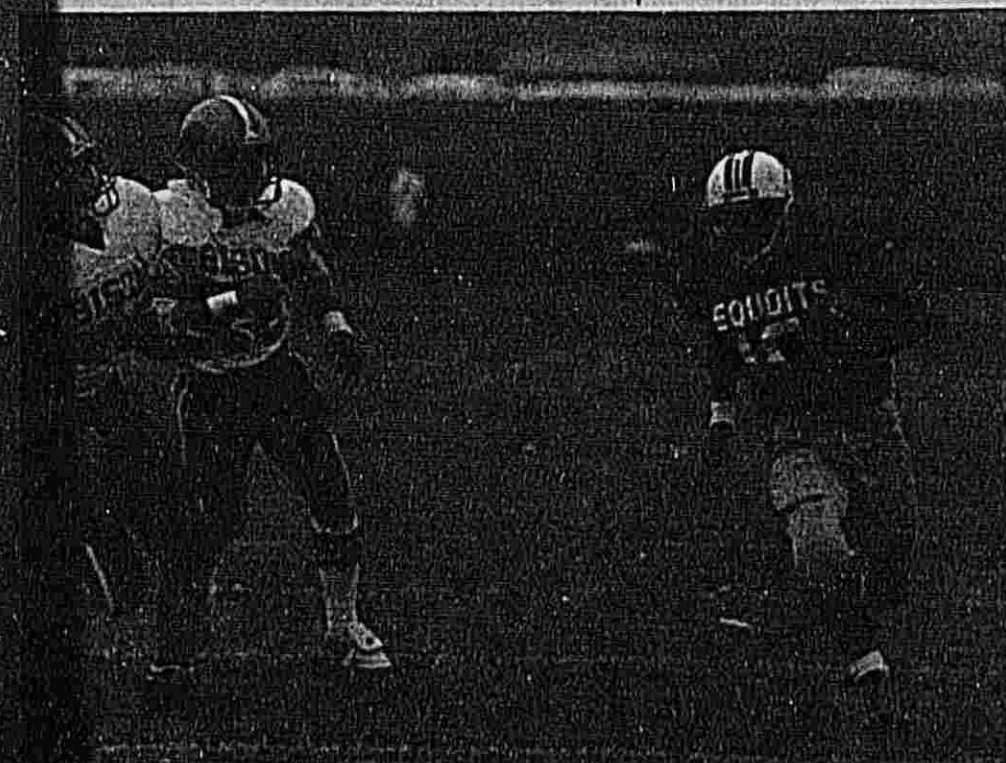

Antioch will be losing several talented seniors to graduation next year, among them Denman and Vince Lasacco. Denman made the all-sectional team and Lasacco earned an all-state honor.

Also graduating will be two-year starters Drew Johnson, Brian Hovey, Dan Pinka and Mark Erickson.

Just a few years ago, the Sequoits won 11 games in two years, now they are 26-12-3 over the last two campaigns.

Trout credited the instruction in the Lindenhurst and Antioch youth soccer leagues as a key factor to the rise in Antioch soccer.

As for the future, the sophomores were 17-1-1 and the freshmen 11-4.

Graham on the run

Antioch running back Glenn Graham sprints down the sidelines against Fenton. Graham scored a third-quarter touchdown but Sequoits lost 20-13. Graham became the second Antioch runner in three years to top the 1,000 yard plateau. Photo by Steve Young.

Graham tops 1,000 yards as Sequoits finish 4-5

Improving by a win over last season and having the second 1,000 yard rusher in three seasons were among the highlights for Antioch's football team.

The Sequoits finished the 1989 campaign at 4-5 after falling to Fenton 20-13 in the season finale.

Running back Glenn Graham finished the season with 1,066 yards and 12 touchdowns. David Wick was the last running back to top the 1,000 yard barrier, with 1,050 after he completed his career in 1987.

Graham's high-water mark came at the Homecoming contest against Warren when he ran for more than 230 yards.

Antioch Coach Del Pechauer said Wick and Graham are two different styles of runners.

"Wick would run right over people. If they were in the same backfield, Wick would be the fullback and Graham would be the flanker," Pechauer said.

"We were in every game," Antioch Coach Pechauer said of the season-in-general.

set up Fenton's first score and a blocked punt set up a go-ahead score in the final quarter.

Quarterback Rick Beattie finished his Antioch career with a seven-for-15, 82 yard passing day but threw for three interceptions.

"He had a tendency to want to throw the ball long but then he started to throw short passes," Antioch Coach Pechauer said.

Graham scored on a one-yard run in the third quarter which gave the home team, shooting for a winning season, a 13-13

tie. A 15-yard penalty on Fenton helped set up the score.

As for the underclass Antioch teams, the sophomores continued the season of improvement as they were 6-3, bettering a 2-6-1 record as freshmen.

Seeking more yards

Spikers give Patriots scare in sectional clash

By STEVE PETERSON

Lakeland Newspapers

Just before the start of the Antioch-Stevenson girls volleyball match at Mundelein High School, a group of Sequoit fans entered the gym.

They came appropriately dressed for the day, wearing an assortment of masks. Not that these fans were afraid of showing their support for Antioch, but this was Halloween night.

Antioch's spikers gave the Patriots all they could handle and a dramatic comeback bid in the second game before bowing out of the Mundelein tournament 15-8, 15-11.

Antioch, winners of its own regional tournament last week, was playing at a disadvantage as it did not have middle hitter Deanna Olemek in the lineup due to mononucleosis. Olemek had 12 kills as the Sequoits ousted Round Lake in the final.

"We only have two middle hitters and she is one of them," Antioch Coach Carla Thompson said.

Thompson's team had defeated Stevenson early in the regular season but lost to the Patriots in the second round and the conference tournament.

"We kind of gave it away. We really missed Deanna. The kids did what they could do," Thompson, whose team finished 19-16-1, said.

"They've come a long way. No one expected them to do this," Thompson said.

Stevenson dominated the first game, pulling away from a 3-3 tie to a 7-3 lead. Stevenson's Carolyn Ring, a senior, served for seven straight points including two aces as the Pats grabbed a 14-5 lead.

Antioch showed signs of comeback, gaining two points from Janelle Maki and one from Teri Farnsworth in closing the gap to 14-8 before Elaine Oh scored the final point for Stevenson.

In game two, Stevenson again broke away from a 3-3 tie to an 11-5 margin.

This time the Sequoits gave the Pats a scare, closing to 11-10 on five straight points by Jenny Hagen.

After a timeout, Stevenson regrouped as Robyn Schenk's point gave the Pats a 12-10 lead and Katie Schuillian and Courtney DeBolt served out the match.

Although his team reached the 30 win plateau for the second straight year and advanced to within one game of another Sweet Sixteen appearance, Coach Bob Schenk was not impressed.

"We played tentative the whole night. We had seven kills and that's usually less than Courtney and Katie have in a match. We were afraid to hit at the net and afraid of making errors. I was not happy with the net play," Schenk said.

Serving improved for Stevenson from game one to the second game. In the first game, the Pats had five bad serves. They were perfect in the second game.

"I think Antioch played the same way we did. They played give-away, too. Our personnel was just able to cover," Schenk said.

"I thought our defense was overshadowed by our lack of offense," the coach said.

Ring had three aces and Brown had four service points. Schenk said the Pats were able to neutralize Antioch's top front-row player Teri Farnsworth.

Kickers prove they belong in IHSA elite

"Antioch High School is no longer the soccer doormat," Coach Charles Trout said with pride.

The Antioch team showed two northern Illinois powerhouses know that yes - the Sequoits do belong to the state elite at the Barrington sectional. The Sequoits edged Elgin Larkin 2-1 in overtime to advance to the sectional final before losing to Palatine 1-0 in a penalty kick.

"Palatine dominated for three quarters but we dominated the fourth quarter," Trout said.

Sophomore Jon Schulz was in goal for the Sequoits and is just one of the reasons Antioch is boasting a 16-4-2 record for this fall.

"Schulz did an excellent job for us," Trout said.

He said he always had the possibility of using Schulz in the back of his mind as the early portion of the season progressed. "His turning point was the first time we put him in against Carmel," Trout said.

For the winning Pirates, Garry Garcia and Mike Jersey scored the penalty kick goals to help Palatine advance to the Sweet Sixteen.

"We had our chances," Trout said. In the sectional opener, Jason Masek scored from an assist of Craig Hanrahan with one minute and 20 seconds into the third OT to make the difference in the win.

"About five different players touched the ball and Craig put a beautiful pass to Masek on the wing. It was a beautiful play," Trout recalled.

Mike Denman, a senior forward, had scored the other goal for Antioch.

The Sequoits downed McHenry 6-1 to win their first-ever regional title after beating Johnsburg 8-0.

Antioch will be losing several talented seniors to graduation next year, among them Denman and Vince Lasacco. Denman made the all-sectional team and Lasacco earned an all-state honor.

Also graduating will be two-year starters Drew Johnson, Brian Hovey, Dan Pinka and Mark Erickson.

Just a few years ago, the Sequoits won 11 games in two years, now they are 26-12-3 over the last two campaigns.

Trout credited the instruction in the Lindenhurst and Antioch youth soccer leagues as a key factor to the rise in Antioch soccer.

As for the future, the sophomores were 17-1-1 and the freshmen 11-4.

Graham on the run

Snow can't stop Lancers from strong showing

Snow, slush and Skyway Conference foes could not stop the College of Lake County's men's and women's cross country teams at the conference meet.

Running in the snow Oct. 19, the men's team captured second place honors with 41 points, finishing behind Waubesa's 30, Morton led with 56.

In the women's three-mile course, CLC won with 16 points while Waubesa, the only other team entered, had 73.

For the women's team, Shelly Hazel paced the winners with a time of 20:22 for first place; Jenny Wisniewski was second with a 20:50; Cheryl Geary third at 21:35; Janis Worch fourth at 22:09 and Theresa Foley sixth at 26:38.

The CLC women's tennis team competed in the Region IV meet Oct. 19-21.

No. 1 singles player Amanda Fritts played better the second time against McHenry's Karen English. English had already defeated Fritts earlier and won again 6-2, 6-4.

No. 4 singles player Cindy Sullivan also played better the second time around against Waubesa's Lisa Linden. This time, it took Linden three sets to win. Sullivan and Linden split the first two sets by 6-3 scores before Linden won the third and deciding set 6-1. The Lancers were 5-5 overall and 3-4 in Skyway Conference action following the regionals.

In volleyball, the Lancers posted a 3-3 record in the Skyway Conference tournament to finish in fourth place. CLC beat Oakton, Wright and Morton and took a game from McHenry. CLC finished with a 7-5 record and 22 tournament total points.

Highlighting the tourney for CLC was beating McHenry 11-7 in the second game after losing 11-8.

CLC downed Oakton 11-5, 11-0 but lost to Waubesa, 11-5, 11-4.

In a triangular meet, CLC beat Triton but lost to Joliet.

Against Joliet, CLC played two close games before falling on the short end of 15-12, 15-13 scores.

CLC won a three-game battle against Triton. After losing the first set 15-5, CLC won 15-5, 15-4.

The split gave the Lancers' spikers a 16-16 overall record.

County YMCA seeking swim team members

The Lake County Family YMCA Swim Team is still seeking team members for the 1989-90 season. The swim team practices from 6:45 - 7:45 p.m. Monday to Friday at the new YMCA building located at 2000 Western Ave. in Waukegan.

No previous swim team experience is necessary to join the team, but interested swimmers should be between the ages of five and 18 and be able to swim at least one length of the pool. Swimmers are supervised by four experienced coaches and compete against swimmers of the same sex and age. Swim meets are held throughout the season on Saturday afternoons and occasionally on Sundays.

"Swimming is one of the most beneficial exercises for kids because it not only develops the cardiovascular system and lung capacity, but it also is one of the fastest ways to tone and develop muscles," stated Kathy Knudson, Aquatic Director at the LCFY. "In addition to the physical benefits of swimming, joining the team develops pride, social skills, goals, leadership skills, and self-discipline in each participant, not to mention F-U-N!!", continued Knudson.

The YMCA invites interested swimmers and parents to come out and watch the LCFY Swim Team practice. Coaches are available after practices to answer questions or for more information, call Kathie Knudson at (312)360-YMCA.

Excited Carmel spikers capture second regional

by BRENT KILLACKY
Lakeland Newspapers

"We were all pretty excited," said Carmel volleyball player Bridget O'Rourke about competing against Mundelein for the regional volleyball title.

"Everybody was really nervous," O'Rourke said.

Carmel was favored to win, but "we still felt like the underdogs anyway."

Carmel, however, won the regional championship by defeating Mundelein in two straight games (15-11, 15-9).

O'Rourke, a junior, was 12 for 13 with 4 kills in the game. Although consistent on the court, she said her serving was "on and off."

"It's (serving) from game to game," O'Rourke added. Improved serving was one of three goals O'Rourke had at the beginning of the season.

O'Rourke's second goal was to keep her spiking percentage up. She said this goal has been met.

Her last goal was to "win our division...and win regional again." This goal has also, obviously, been met.

Carmel next plays Warren in the continuing hope to make state.

"I really hope we can do it," O'Rourke, 16, said.

The team's motto last year and again this year is "If we work together we can."

"Togetherness is really a big part of the team," she said.

O'Rourke, who plays outside hitter and middle blocker, said "since grade school I had a love for it (volleyball)."

Leading players for the Corsairs were Michele Muellner (20-20, 13 kills) and Sheryl Jachowski (12-15, 5 kills).

Carmel's 'vets' shine as playoff beckons

By BRENT KILLACKY
Lakeland Newspapers

"It feels great," said Carmel running back Jerry Foster after the Corsairs victory over the Notre Dame Dons 39-14 Friday.

Carmel Coach Mike Fitzgibbons said Foster "had a great game."

Foster (15 carries for 200 yards) had two rushing touchdowns and caught one pass for a touchdown.

Did Foster expect to do so well? "Not at the beginning," he said.

Foster attributes most of his success in the game to offensive blocking. He even said his touchdown runs were primarily due to blocks by running back Matt Simmons.

"He (Foster) got great blocks on every pitch by Simmons," Coach Fitzgibbons said.

Foster, 16, started playing football in seventh grade.

"I've always been a running back," Foster said.

He likes the position because "running backs get the ball, and it's fun getting the ball."

The junior may be a rough and tough running back on the field, but off the field Foster has a fervent love of animals.

"I like animals a lot," Foster said. The dog and fish owner plans on becoming a veterinarian.

With Coach Fitzgibbons' implementation of a new "Wing-T" offense, Foster has been given more playing time this season.

This may have been a good move for the Corsairs as Foster has scored over 10 touchdowns this season.

Another scorer for Carmel in the game against Notre Dame was Jerome Cyraneck (63 yard TD run, 9 carries for 108 yards.)

Kicker Justin Klestinski was 3-3 in extra points and Carmel failed three two-point conversion attempts.

Scoring twice for the Dons of Notre Dame was Anthony Salerno (11 carries for 29 yards.)

"I'm really pleased with the way our offense gets off the ball," Fitzgibbons said.

The victory increases Carmel's winning streak to 5.

Carmel (7-2) plays Deerfield (8-1) in the first playoff round.

The playoffs feature two teams new to post-season play, North Chicago and Grayslake.

Round Lake fell to Antioch in 1985 27-7.

Antioch has the most playoff appearances and a 6-4 record since 1979. The Sequoias beat Rockford Boylan 14-7 and Jacobs 35-12 before losing to Wheaton North 14-6.

Library, 9-1-1 issues before Warren Twp. voters

Warren-Newport Public Library is asking for a increase of 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation in order to meet medium standards of operation as set by the state.

That was the message brought by organizers seeking support for the Gurnee Library's Nov. 7 referendum. If approved, the corporate fund rate would increase from 15 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 25 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

"The quality of the community is often measured by the quality of its school system and library," Robert Amaden said.

Amaden is heading a citizens committee with Verna Rocheleau which is organizing support. Amaden, a Heather Ridge resident and a member of the Gurnee Plan Commission, is a former educator at Lake Forest College and Rocheleau is a retired Gurnee Dist. 56 educator.

Amaden said he is optimistic about the tax increase chances. Volunteers have been making calls to voters informing them of the tax hike bid.

In other issues on the ballot next Tuesday, voters in both Gurnee and Park City will determine whether or not their communities will have Enhanced 9-1-1.

Gurnee Fire Chief Tim

McGrath expressed hope of the 9-1-1's chances.

In Newport Twp., voters will be asked to set a special tax rate of 30 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for ambulance service.

Started with the help of present Gurnee Park Dist. Dir. Betty Russell, the library was in a rented bookmobile in 1972. In 1974, the library served 16,521 people. Today, it serves 28,779 residents, a growth of 174 percent.

Other increases in demands of the library include a jump from 4,372 to 24,116 registered users; 34,524 to 272,340 in circulation; 8,191 to 72,837 in the number of books; 118 to 1,070 in meeting room use; 5.0 to 18.5 in staff and $136,873 to $796,335 in budget.

The library has had two building programs - the latest in 1986. "Your tax dollar for the library does not go anyplace except here to our library," Amaden said.

Amaden said the library district, which includes Wildwood and Gages Lake areas to the west and Wadsworth to the north, needs to expand with the growth of the community.

News, Views & Questions About Your Eyes
By
Robert L. Epstein, M.D., Director
Illinois Center for Corrective Eye Surgery

QUESTION: I've heard about lens implants after cataract surgery. What does this mean?

ANSWER: Over time, the transparent natural lens behind the eye's cornea becomes cloudy and must be removed to help restore vision. After surgery, the focusing function of the lens can be replaced with glasses, contact lenses or intraocular lenses which are small, plastic lenses that are surgically implanted in the eye when the cataract is removed. They act as a permanent replacement for the natural lens and enable the patient to avoid the distortion that often accompanies cataract glasses and the difficulty that many older people have putting in and taking out contact lenses. Intraocular lenses do not eliminate a patient's need for glasses to correct other vision problems. If you are considering having a cataract removed your ophthalmologist will help decide what type of correction is best for you.

Lakeland Newspapers Lake County At A Glance

Clears the air

GRAYSLAKE—Village of Grayslake and Lake County Forest Preserve officials held what participants believe was a beneficial meeting to clear the air at Grayslake Mayor Marv Smith's office Monday. The village and the forest preserve discussed the status of 65 acres annexed by the village off Rte. 120 at the request of a group of homeowners. Mayor Smith said the meeting was a positive one between the two governmental bodies. Attending were Grayslake Trustees Pat Carey, Randy Bussone and Robert Russell. Forest Preserve Chairman C. Richard Anderson along with members Suzie Schmidt of Dist. 4 and Mike Graham of Dist. 6 were also present.

Library expanding

VERNON HILLS—The Vernon Area Public Library, 23184 North Indian Creek Rd. in Prairie View will expand their facilities. "The architects will do a feasibility study to determine whether we should expand here or build elsewhere. However, we will probably stay on this location," Library Director Allen Meyer said. Library board members will interview four architects and choose which of those four will supervise the project in a vote on Monday, Nov. 20. The expansion is estimated to cost $4.3 million and will probably be paid for through a referendum, he said.

Seeking site

LIBERTYVILLE—Motorola Inc. is looking at 87 acres it owns at Rte. 45 and Winchester Rd. for construction of a new plant to manufacture cellular telephones. Since introducing a new pocket-size unit earlier this year and opening of Japan as market, the company needs new production facilities outside of its main facility in Schaumburg. Also being considered is LakeView Corporate Park in nearby Kenosha County owned by Wisconsin Electric Co., which has promised lower electrical rates.

Judges needed

LAKE COUNTY—Lake County clerk's office is seeking about 25 more people to serve as election judges in the Nov. 7 election. Elections judges should live in the area, "but we can take a registered voter outside the precinct and use them where we need them," said Linda Hess. To be an election judge, a person must be a registered voter and must represent either the Republican or Democratic party. Please call (312) 360-5928 if interested.

Beat state rank

MUNDELEIN—Students at Mundelein High School have a graduation rate 15 percent above the state average, score higher than average on the American College Test (ACT) and fare better in all other areas than their state counterparts. However, attendance is 3 percent below the state average.

Grever announces

LAKE ZURICH—Ela Twp. Supervisor Bob Grever has officially announced his candidacy for the Dist. 6 seat on the county board. Grever has served as supervisor for nine years and is currently serving on the Ela Twp. Republican Executive Committee.

Noise pollution

LAKE VILLA—Lake Villa resident John Yanik has complained to the Village Board that cyclists from as far away as Palatine are disturbing the peace by riding their dirt bikes through fields and wooded areas on the villages south side. "They've turned the field south of Coventry Cove into a race track," Yanik said. According to Yanik, one man was caught by police and fined $50. Board members and Mayor Joyce Frayer said they have also heard the extremely loud bikes and have been bothered by them. "I heard them tonight and it was terrible," Frayer, a resident of Oak Knoll, said. They promised to ask property owners to post no trespassing signs on their land.

Top readers

ANTIOCH — Parents, the administration of Antioch Upper Grade School and several language art teachers are proud of the reading prowess of the eighth grade students who ranked first in the Chicago Metro Area and fourth in the entire State of Illinois in a statewide reading competition. The statewide average test score is 2.55, AUGS students had an average score of 3.63. Teachers of these students are Sharon Sorlie, Jeff Smith, Rachel Hewitt, Anna Rogachuck, Wayne Ochwat and Patty Hill.

Carson's has newest store

Grand opening of a new Carson Pirie Scott store at the Hawthorn Center in Vernon Hills is set for Saturday, Nov. 11.

The store is in space formerly occupied by Lord & Taylor, which closed last April after 13 years on the local retailing scene.

Space on the two floors of the store has been extensively remodeled.

Hiring has been underway for several weeks for the 250-person staff to operate the store.

The store will carry both men's and

Lexington hearing

GURNEE—The ball is in their court," Woodland Dist. 50 Supt. Marlin Meyer said. Meyer made the assessment of talks with developers regarding coming up with an agreement on a surcharge which would help finance a new school. Meyer met with a group of developers Tuesday. Meyer said he is seeking a surcharge from the developers to help pay the costs of educating children brought into Woodland Dist. 50 by new developments such as Lexington Homes and the Zale Group. The surcharge would be above the $45,000 per acre developer donation charge.

Mass exodus

LINDENHURST—About a half dozen employees in the Village of Lindenhurst have resigned from their jobs to pursue work elsewhere and to make career changes. The police chief, engineer, a police officer, village office manager, a village office worker and the superintendent of recreation at the Lindenhurst Park Dist. have all resigned within weeks of one another. Cheryl DeClerck, supt. of recreation for the park district, is the latest employee to offer her resignation. She says she is leaving for no other reason except to further her career as supt. of recreation at the Glencoe Park Dist. The village is currently advertising for employees.

women's fashions and apparel, cosmetics, bedding and linen.

This is the second Carson's store in Lake County. A full-line store is located on three floors in the Lakehurst Mall in Waukegan.

Carson's was acquired in May by Milwaukee-based P. A. Bergner & Co., a Swiss retailing giant. Formerly an independent merchandiser based in Peoria, Bergner now has 64 stores in the midwest.

Film Review

Though Jeff Bridges has been the big star of the Bridges family as of late, little brother Beau gets the acting kudos for the brothers' first joint venture, "The Fabulous Baker Boys."

Actually, Michelle Pfeiffer easily steals the picture with musical renditions that are the sultriest since Rita Hayworth's "Put the Blame on Mame," and Marilyn Monroe's, "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend."

The Bridges boys play brothers that have been performing in nightclubs as a piano duo for years, with Beau the business half and Jeff, the strange talented genius.

Jeff Bridges, who has turned in some fine performances in the last few years, is probably sexier than ever, but his character and almost relationship with Pfeiffer remains a mystery to the end of the flick either because of lack of proper character development or because of sketchy writing.

Pfeiffer is the reason most people have been rushing to see "Baker Brothers."

Her come-hither looks and voice, just developed for singing, and her top-of-the-piano-antics while musically breathing the unlikely "Whoopie," are show stoppers of the first degree.

The younger Bridges and the plot could have been better. Let's give this one three stars out of five.

CLC play will be look at Hamlet

The College of Lake County Theatre will present Tom Stoppard's "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead," a comic treatment of Shakespeare's Hamlet, for five performances beginning Nov. 10.

All shows are at 8 p.m. in the CLC auditorium in Grayslake. Performance dates are Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10 and 11; and Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 16, 17 and 18. Tickets are $5.

The play focuses on Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, two minor players in Hamlet, who wonder who they are and what their roles are in the drama.

As kings, queens and princes enter and exit the stage, and a troupe of players enact key scenes from Hamlet, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern play their parts while trying to understand the meaning of it all.

The play is directed by Eibhlin Glennon, CLC theatre faculty. Cast members include Kevin Earley of Mundelein as Rosencrantz; Christian Kendra of Ingleside as Guildenstern; Heath Denikas of Lake Villa as the Players leader; Joe Tyrivier of Winthrop Harbor as Hamlet; Joy Jaraczewski of Waukegan as Gertrude; Steve Newcomb of Antioch as Claudius; Kirsten Simonsen of Mundelein as Ophelia; and Jason Fout of Wadsworth as Polonius.

The actors are played by Keefe Burton of Zion, Billy Reames and Kimberly Hamann of Waukegan, John Amedio of Ingleside and Patrick Lyons of Round Lake.

All proceeds from the Thursday, Nov. 16, performance will be donated to funds for the F.J. Harnish Shakespeare Centre, a planned collection of Elizabethan era reference and resource materials. The centre is named in memory of the late Frank Harnish, a long-time CLC faculty member and founder of the college's theatre program.

Col. Bill 'falls for' Canadian vacation

by BILL RADKE

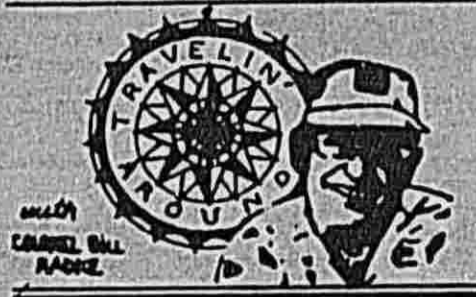

With eyes glued to the camera's view window, I moved slowly backward 'till the campground sign filling the photoframe included some of the lovely background scenery. Just one more backward step would do it... Suddenly, I was teetering on the brink of nowhere - falling backwards, like a skydiver.

Then occurred one of those rare, brilliantly sensitive moments. As I plunged downward, lightning questions zapped my mind like - How far will I fall? What will I hit? Don't drop the camera! then THUD! I bottomed out flat on my back in a seven-foot drainage ditch.

My left, camera clutching hand tingled, my breath had been knocked out of me and I lay prone, wondering "Did I break anything?" Tried moving my hands, then feet, arms, legs and body - everything worked, but slowly.

From overhead I hear, "Hey Bill, where are you?" It was Randy Hanson, my host-guide from Nestor Falls, Ontario, Canada. He operates nearby Hanson's Hideaway on Crow Lake, and I was stealing his name-thunder. Randy had moved our vehicle slightly so I could get a clear camera shot of the attractive Lecuyer's Resort sign, on Lake of the Woods. When he popped out of the car, I had disappeared into my own, Hideaway. It was the hard way to visit Lecuyer's. Randy helped me back to level ground and we continued our visit... still slowly.

The tall pines seemed too tall, but they were real. Their 90 feet of stately grandeur admitted shafts of sunlight but screened trailer sites from the warm summer sun. Pines are nature's air conditioning sentinals that knock 20 degrees from a hot day's readings, pinescent air and supply a soft, silent ground cover of dried brown needles and lumpy cones.

Inspected and well rated by Woodalls Campground Directory, it also bears a four star, Ontario tourism rating. Lecuyer's offers cottages, houseboat, fishing craft and both sport fishing and game hunting, wilderness fly-outs. Call Ontario's Sunset Country 1-800-465-1900, Ext. CB, or write Lecuyer's direct at Box 55 CB, Nestor Falls, Ontario, Canada, POX 1KO. It's about 740 miles from Chicagoland, good roads and I1 composes a large part of their guest register. Just be more careful in your inspection.

Five conservation sites feature National Hunting and Fishing Day, program the weekend of Sept. 23 to 24. Designed for all ages, especially kids, they variously include fishing, hunting, dog training, cooking, artifacts, antiques and a variety of equipment games and displays.

For a pleasant trip to an excellent area, consider Kennebec County Park Fish and Wildlife Area near Danville. Their tourism office, (1-800)383-4386 will furnish local celebration information plus camping, housing and routing assistance. Conservation's Chicago office is (312)917-2070.

Birds, butterflies and waterfowl are in their migratory period, and interesting to most. The monarch butterfly is the world champion traveling insect. Watch for their passing in gardens, parks and particularly in blooming natural meadows
